

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

PREFACE

This volume is but the first of a series which will be the fulfilment of a wish I have long cherished: to bring together, as in a sort of Corpus, all the documents relating to the history of the English Court drama, as well such as have been already printed as those which still remain unpublished in public or private archives. A second volume relating to the Revels in the time of Edward VI and Mary, chiefly from the Loseley MSS., is ready; and Prof. Bang, the energetic Editor of the Materialien, is anxious to print it as soon as possible. A third volume on the Court Festivities in Henry VIII's time is in preparation, and will be followed later on by a fourth on the Revels in the days of the Stuarts. If I succeed in bringing this ambitious undertaking to an end, I trust I shall have rendered some service to the historians of the English stage.

It may seem somewhat odd that, with this program in view, I should begin with the Revels of Elizabeth's time, and thus be obliged, in my future publications, to go backwards. My simple reason is, that I had to collect these later documents before the others for literary researches of my own, and that my keeping them by me would have delayed the execution of my design for a considerable time. Besides, they cover the most important period in the history of the Court drama, and most of them have been published by Cunningham, or used by Collier. Both of these editors are discredited, though constantly, if reluctantly, quoted for want of more reliable sources. It was most urgent, therefore, that somebody should dispel the mist of suspicion which has for long paralyzed the efforts of many scholars, when it has not led them into dangerous pitfalls.

This has been the more important — and, perhaps, the more useful — part of my work in the present volume (1); for Collier and Cunningham were indefatigable searchers, and they have not left much for their successors to discover. The kindness of Mr. W. More Molyneux, however, enables me to lay before the public for the first time a valuable Revels Book and a still more valuable Inventory of the Office of the Revels. I present also a certain number of Exchequer documents, which had not yet been searched systematically, and which form the first nearly unbroken record of the expenses of the Revels. Lastly, my notes contain a batch of extracts from, or references to, other documents in the Record Office which I have not printed in the body of my book, either because they were not interesting enough, or because they would have been a useless repetition. I hope I have thus gathered into one volume all the remaining documents on the subject for the reign of Elizabeth.

It was my intention to write an Introduction to this volume, in which I should have given, as it were, the marrow of the documents. But while correcting the proofs, I realized better their importance in the history of stage scenery in England; and finally, as my enquiries on the subject grew to cumbersome proportions, I decided not to swell too greatly the size of a book already too bulky, but to treat the question elsewhere with all the amplitude it deserves.

(1) I am glad to say that in the part of Cunningham's Revels included in this volume (I leave the 1605 and 1612 Books out of the question at present) I have found no forgery; on the contrary, it is but just to say that his publication is most accurate, and that I have counted no more than five or six serious misreadings. Unfortunately, I cannot say the same of Collier, as my notes will show.

There remains to say a few words on the method adopted in this publication. I have endeavoured to reproduce the documents, not exactly in facsimile, but as nearly as it is possible to imitate written documents with printers' type. The spelling and the punctuation have been religiously preserved. In the case of certain letters, I have even tried to distinguish between true capitals (printed in my book as such) and mere initial forms (printed as minuscules); but this, I recognise, is mere loss of time, and I shall never do it again, so long as I have to deal with XVIth century, and even XVth century documents. For typographical reasons, I have omitted the « probantur's », « examinatur's » and other notes with which the Auditors have sometimes lavishly covered the pages of the originals (1). But whenever such annotations have the smallest tittle of interest they have been recorded in the notes. All contractions (those still in use excepted) have been expanded, and are indicated by italics. When the documents are in two or more hands, the handwritings other than that of the document have been set in different type, and are preceded by an asterisk (*). When it was doubtful whether what looked like an addition was or was not in a different hand, I have printed it in the same type as the rest of the document, but I have used an asterisk to distinguish it. These are somewhat complicated rules, and, to be sure, they have caused me much trouble, sometimes necessitating five and even six « proofs » (2); but this complication may be of use to those who are familiar with old documents, and like to imagine what the original may have been. I hope there are not many inconsistencies in the application of those rules, but I shall not be astonished if a few contradictions have been unavoidable in a work of this length, in which I have had to deal with at least seventy different scribes. At any rate, true paleographers, if they come across any irregularities, will, I am sure, excuse me.

I have several obligations to acknowledge. To Mr W. More Molyneux, the enlightened possessor of a splendid collection, the Editor of the Materialien and myself return our most heartfelt thanks for permitting us to include some of his literary treasures in this volume, and to him, historians of the drama will soon be indebted for the publication, so long wished for, of the Loseley MSS. Dr F. J. Furnivall, as disinterested as a man as he is great as a scholar, has added to the many obligations I have to him by revising the manuscript of my notes. To Mr R. A. Roberts whose courtesy is unexampled, to Mr E. Salisbury, of the Record Office, and generally to the officials of this Institution, to Mr J. A. Herbert, of the British Museum, whose patience is inexhaustible, I am much indebted for valuable help and the facilities they have given me. To M. A. Macé, Professor of Latin Paleography at the University of Rennes, I owe also many a suggestion. To my friend Prof. W. Bang I apologize for spoiling his holidays last year, by my incessant pouring-in of proofs; in fact, he has had as large a share in the printing of the book as myself. Finally, I thank my wife — last but not least — who has been to me the most patient and the most intelligent of secretaries. Without her help in searching and transcribing, this book would never have seen the light, and therefore, if it prove useful to scholars, the greater thanks are due to her. She has also compiled the Index of Proper Names.

A. F.

(1) I have made one or two exceptions to this rule when such annotations were particularly interesting for the history of the drama.

(2) I may perhaps mention that I have corrected all the documents by the originals at least three times.

PART I

THE OFFICE & OFFICERS

Of the first Institution of the Revels with a Draught of certain Rules to be Observed for the better Management of the Office.

British Museum. Lansdowne MSS. 83. art. 59.

- 5 The Office of the Revelles as it shoulde seeme by reporte hath in tymes past bene in that order That the Prince beinge disposed to pastyme would at one tyme appoynte one persone, at sometyme an other, suche as for creditte pleasaunte witte and habilitye in learnynge he thought meete to be the Master of the Revelles for that tyme, to sett fourthe suche devises as might be most agreable to the Princes expectation/ The workes beinge fynished It is thought that the Princes Tayler havinge the oversight of the workemanshippe brought in the Bill of charges and was payed for it wherevpon is gathered that Iohn Houlte yeoman of the Revelles vsed to saye Concerninge allowaunce of charges in the office of the Revelles it hath bene but a Taylers Bill.
- 15 It is alledged by some that afterwarde The Revelles together with the Tenters and Toyles was made an office and certen of the kinges householde servauntes appoynted by patent to have care thereof Off whiche office there was a Seriaunt yeoman groomes &c some of theym by the Kinge speciallye appoynted as it shoulde seeme for that they hadde *lettres patent*es of the same office where commonlye others of their callinge in office in the Courte have their offices without patent, And some thinke that the Revelles was kept and wrought within the Princes owne pallace :
- 25 After the deathe of Travers Seriaunt of the said office Sir Thomas Carden Knight beinge of the kinges Maiesties pryvie Chamber beinge skilfull and delightinge in matters of devise, preferred to that office, did mislyke to be tearmed a Seriaunt because of his better countenaunce of roome and place beinge of the Kinges Maiesties privye Chamber And so became he by patent the first Master of the Revelles.
- 30 Afterwardes Sir Thomas Carden havinge by all likelihoode mistrust of loose and negligent dealinges by Inferiour officers or others in that office and because hym selfe coulde not be alwayes there present to oversee the charge of the office procured at the kinges handes That there shoulde be also a Clerke Comptroller of the said office who beinge the Princes sworne man and caryinge that name might with some countenaunce or authoritye stande hym in good steede for the better government and direccion of the said office, and for the amendement of the loose dealinges

In what state the office of the Revelles is reported to haue bene in.

The Reuelles Tenters and Toyles made an Office.

The first Master of that office by patent.

The first Clerke Comptroller by patent.

both to his owne ease and the Princes good service/ whiche Clerke Comptroller was Iohn Barnard who was the first Clerke Comptroller of the said office for the Revelles and Tent^s by patent.

It might seeme that in tymes past the same office beinge kept in the Kinges house The Clerke Comptrollers of the Kinges houshold or one of theym hadde 5 eye vpon the Princes charges in that behalfe whiche might enduce a President for the establishment of a Clerke Comptroller in the said office.

The first Clerke by Patent.

Sir Thomas Carden after that beinge driven as it should seeme from tyme to tyme to have his bookes of accompte made vp by the Clerke of the Kinges woorkes as the office might be vsed when it was kepte in the Princes Courte thought it expedient by reason of greate charge and expences daylie growinge by reason of the same office To have some necessarye person who beinge the Princes sworne ser- 10 vaunte and havinge office and wages or fee by Patent therefore might register and enter the | charges anye waye growen by reason of the said office from tyme to tyme ¶ 158 r. who also might be a good witnes of the vpriht service both of the masters and 15 others dealinges in the said office and to make vppe and perfitt the bookes reconynges and accomptes of the said office with more readye vnderstandinge by reason of attendaunce then the Clerke of the woorkes beinge a straunger thervnto coulde doe, procured Thomas Philippes to be Clerke of the said office who was the first Clerke by Patent of the said office 20

The deuision of the Offices

The Quenes maiestye that nowe [is] devided the said Office into diverse offices videlicet.

The Revelles to Sir Thomas Benger knight.

The Tent^s to Mr Henrye Sakeford of her Maiesties privie Chamber.

The Toyles to Mr Tamworth of her Maiesties privie Chamber. 25

The offices bi deathe to be vnyted agayne into one.

If the offices of the Tent^s and Toyles might in tyme be vnyted agayne into the said office of the Revelles The Prince might therebye have an office of better accompte The officers might also be the better enhabled to do her Maiestye good service and her highnes charges might somewhat be dyminished.

The habilltye of the officers of the Revelles for their trust and skill might 30 sufficientlly serve for execucion of anye of the other offices.

The woorkemen servinge in the Revelles may very aptly serve in the other offices.

The prouision maye be made by one Commission for all.

The Storehouses of theym all be presentllye in one place. 35

The Clerke Comptroller and the Clerke of the Revelles have hitherto bene and yet are officers both for the Revelles and tent^s.

Syr Thomas Carden as I am enformed hadde the dealinges of all three offices at once.

Howe the office might be taken in

It maye be thought that if the officers weare discharged That the Quenes Maies- 40 tye might be served by ^{some} one person to take charge thereof after a rate for lesse then her Maiestye is nowe charged with This muche I knowe That the officers whiche be presentlye in the said office doe spende in the convenyent service of the prince whiche of necessitye cannot be avoyded havinge consideracion what is meete and due to the Princes service more then is allowed by the 5 Prince in fee or wages for the execucion of the said office/ I suppose that anye one that will enter into that service for tyme of Continuaunce after a rate will rather seeke to gayne by it then loose by it And then will the office be more chargeable to the Prince then nowe it is I see not howe any man takinge it by an annuall rate canne per-forme it but either the Prince must be overcharged or the partye muche hyndered and 10 in daunger of vndoynge vnles he be of greate wealthe/ Bycause the charge of that office will alwayes growe accordinge to the Princes pleasure/ if the party be overcharged releife wilbe sought and obtayned at the Princes handes (and by that meanes the more easelye to be adventured) to be taken in hande/yf the Prince shalbe overcharged by the rate so muche the more wilbe the parties gayne, if the partye shall gayne any 15 thinge thereby It is more then the officers presentlye desire to doe.

ferme after a rate is very vncertaine.

The next waye after a rate that canne be devised is for the Prince to appoynte an ordynarye howe manye maskes howe manye playes everye maske of what value 158 v. everye playe of what charge wherein the nomber is to be considered | and the richenes of the stuffe Devises and shewes cannot well be put in nomber or valued for the 20 charge that shalbelonge therevnto/ yf there shalbe an ordynarye charge, and an extraordynarye as it must needes, because Princes are alwayes to have thinges accordinge to their pleasure Then is it not of certentye for anye man to gesse the annuall charge/ ffor the banquetinge houses the charges will growe accordinge to the Princes pleasure in the nomber of theym in the length bredth fasshion and forme of theym 25 and in the costlye or sleight deckinge or trymyng of theym The charges thereof as I thinke cannot be well gessed and therefore not be vndertaken by annuall rate but either the Prince ouercharged or the partye as aforesaid in hazarde of vndoinge.

No rate can well be made of thoffice.

ffor the nomber of officers that be presentlye or for the Princes charge in that behalfe It maye be sayed and trulye sayed That they and their servaunt^s if everye 30 one hadde more then they have weare not to manye to looke to all the workemen both for the hast of the preparacion and safeguard of the stuffe whiche some of woorkkermen and manye there is readye to spoyle filche or steale without good oversight/
 No officer carefull of the office but shall of necessitye spende more then his fee and wages cometh vnto and be driven to attende and watche both daye and night Noe 35 service more troblesome for the tyme of the woorkes then the service of the Revelles both for the bodye and the mynde The fee and wages whiche anye one of the officers hath will not in my symple opynyon suffice to maynteyne any man beinge of meane and symple estate accompted the Princes officer (havinge nothinge els to take to) albeit he were a sole man without charge of wife or children.

The number of officers breed-es not the charge to the Prynce.

The Eyringes
necessarie.

It may be thought that the charges maye growe to muche for the Eyringes It is very convenient the stuffe be layed abroad^{to} and eayred and that the officers in tyme of Eayringe be present to see the safetye of it and to gather vpon the laying^{to} of it abroad^{to} certen devises from tyme to tyme howe thinges translated or amended maye serve afterwarde to good purpose where otherwise it is not possible for the officers to carye in memorye the forme of thinges they be so manye and of suche diversitye whiche manye tymes maye serve aswell to purpose as if the Quenes Maiestye shoulde be at charge to make newe/ A tyme of eyringes maye be certenlye appoynted and howe manye dayes everye Eyringe shall laste. 5

One officer more to be added to the office.

for the better execucion of the office of the Revelles in my simple opinion yf 10 one officer more weare added to the office the Prince might be the better served and the office better ordered whereof I most humblye crave to vtter my meaninge.

The Maister of the office.

first I woulde wishe for the Princes honour That some one of Countenaunce and of credit with the Prince might beare the name of Master Suche as the Quenes Maiestye thought meetest to receyve her highnes pleasure from tyme to tyme atten- 15 daunt in the Courte and to delyver the same over by speache or platt to one suche as followeth. videlicet.

A Seriaunt of the office.

A Seriaunte of the Revelles learned and skilfull howe to execute the devise receyved or to invente a newe meete and necessarye with the allowaunce of the Master whiche Seriaunte is thoroughly to followe the devise in the office of the 20 Revelles from the begynnyng to the latter ende ffor if a platte be never so well devised yf it be not aswell followed it will never come to his perfeccion whiche said Seriaunt after the devise of the Master is to bende hym selfe wholye to devise and to see everye man to woorke accordinge to his devise whiche will occupye hym sufficientlye and thoroughlye and this will muche ease the Master who cannot 25 alwayes wayte vpon the Queenes pleasure and vpon the devise and all the workemen/ fortherevnto maye belonge devise vpon devise The Seriaunt besides is with the Master and the reast of the officers to be at the rehersall of playes, he is to conceyve the Masters opynyon to correcte and chaunge the matter after the Masters mynde to see wrought and sett fourthe anye devise that belongeth therevnto that ought to 30 be followed for matter of learninge and devise The rest of the officers for the provision of the stuffe and for makinge of the garmentes and other thinges accordingelye |

¶ 159 r.

A Privitie to be amongst the officers.

The Maister and Seriaunte are bothe to calle and conferre with the Clerke Comptroller Clerke and yeoman of the office howe their devise maye be ordered to 35 the leste charge of the Prince with the helpe of suche stuffe as the office is furnyshed alreadye with all And that the devise growe not more chargeable then well satisfyinge the Princes expectation of necessitye it ought.

The Clerke
Comptrollers
office.

The Clerke Comptroller is to be contynuallye attendaunte in the office of the Revelles in the tyme of service who in dede shoulde have the speciall charge of hus- 40

bandinge of the stuffe or prouision of the office and of Checke and rate for the Prynces commoditye but to prouide no stuffe ^{or} anye greate charge to the Prince nor deliver the like to be occupied without warraunte from the Master or Seriaunte The Clerke Comptroller to kepe with the Clerke of the same office a Iornall booke
 5 of the charges of the office, both their Iornall bookes to be extant at all tymes of the woorkes in the office to the ende the Master and Seriaunt maye be alwayes pryve therevnto The Clerke Comptroller to make noe prouision of anye matter of weight in charge to the Prince without the consent of the Master and Seriaunte and the privitye of the rest of the officers for the Price.

- 10 The Clerke is to note all the partes of the service from tyme to tyme to kepe perfect bookes to enter all the woorkemans names to call theym mornynge and eveninge and other tymes of the daye by name to note their absence to make the Clerke Comptroller pryve to their defaultes whereby he maye checke theym of their wages accordinge to their desertes The Clerke is also to make vppe and perfitt all 15 reconynges considered of by the officers besides the keapinge his Iornall booke whiche Clerke maye be a good witnes of the good or ill service of the Prince and a meete man by reason of entringe of the charges to discerne whither the Prince be abused in the service or noe.

- The Master of the office alwayes to have authoritye to call to accompte any 20 the said officers for anye thinge apperteyninge to the Princes service

- It maye be also thought that the Master of an office, is to have the onely care and governement of the same accordinge to his discesion without further order to be prescribed then suche as he shall appoynte/ And it maye be thought also vnmete and inconvenyent that inferiour officers shoulde seeke to procure anye other
 25 ordynaunces or articles besides But forasmuche as a platte forme of certen ordynaunces touchinge the said office hath bene before my tyme delyvered over to some of the Quenes Maiesties most honorable pryve Counsell The whiche or the cople whereof remayneth with some of theym as I am enformed at this present I make bolde to bringe to remembraunce some parte of those ordynaunces hereafter
 30 followinge and to adde therevnto some more articles and ordynaunces to be considered of/ whiche ratified and allowed by the Quenes Maiesties Counsell woulde I suppose stande the office in verye good steede, for the Princes better service/ And touchinge the cause that doth me to be of that mynde whereof others weare before me I desire that two poyntes next followinge maye speciallye be noted.

- 35 The one whether the Quenes Maiestie or her highnes privy Counsell shall please to allowe That the Master of the said office shall have suche absolute power and auctoritye as that the vnder officers shall onelye doe that whiche he commaundeth and that the Master onelye shall make prouision rate price of wares and stuffe rate wages give allowaunce of all manner of thinges accordinge to his discesion
 40 onelye And that his hande setto the booke for all allowaunces and charges

The Clerkes

The Masters
Superioritye

Question of ordynaunces.

One pointe concerninge
the Masters
authoritie whether ordinaunces be

whatsoever shalbe sufficient warraunte to the inferiour officers to subscribe their handes to the booke whereby the Prince is to be charged and to make payment for the same accordingly yf this maye be vnderstande to the inferiour officers to be the Princes pleasure and that some warraunt might be hadde in that behalfe Then shall they be assured that performinge their diligence accordinge to the Masters 5 appoyntement they shalbe free from the Princes blame and besides not accomptable to the Prince but onely to the Master of the said office The Master onelye to have prayse or blame for the well or yll execucion of the office and he onelye to aunswere for all thinges done in the said office In this poynte the Inferiour officers shall neede no other ordynaunces then suche as the Master shall prescribe. | ¶ 159 v.

But this perhaps maye followe that if the Master shalbe blamed for thinges not done accordinge to the Princes expectation that he will partelye excuse hym selfe and alledge that he cannot so well rule the inferiour officers beinge the Princes sworne servauntes as he coulde his owne/ So maye the Master put the blame from hym selfe to theym Albeit they wilbe more carefull to obeye those his com- 15 maundementes whiche apperteyne unto the Princes service as dutye bindeth theym to doe then his owne servauntes woulde be Surelye this waye without verye good choyce of a speciall good Master The Prynce maye be worse served Then if the Master onelye shoulde take the charge throughlie to performe it by hym selfe and his owne servauntes/ ffor when blame maye be shifted of by one meane or other There 20 wilbe the lesse foresight howe to avoide it Thus muche of the first poynte.

A Seconde
pointe concernynge
ordynaunces.

The other poynte/ yf there shalbe a Master of the said office that will vse anye indirect dealinges whereby the Prynce may be ill served And that the Quenes Maiestie doth make accompte that the inferiour officers shoulde helpe it or complayne for remedye It is not for Inferiour officers to repugne the Master his doinges 25 hym selfe beinge in place Albeit there be never so greate cause but shalbe ruled over as shall please the Master vnles some good ordynaunces remayninge of recorde in the same office discribinge perticulerlye everye mans charge for most necessarye dealinges weare to leade order therein And the same ordynaunces ratified and allowed either by auctoritye of the Prince or some of her maiestyes most honorable 30 Pryvie Counsell at all tymes to be extant in the said office ffor when matters of greate charge are to be executed with greate spede Inferiours with superiours are not to dispute or to vse controversye concerninge their auctoritye given to theym by patent especiallye with a Master of an office Therefore desired that theise ordynaunces and Articles hereafter followinge maye be considered of and standinge 35 with the Princes pleasure or the pleasure of the Counsell to be commaunded to be penned and perfited by some suche as theye shall thinke meete and ratified and allowed.

 not lent forthe

The officers of the Revelles (as other officers servinge the Queenes Maiestie in other offices) have hadd their fees whiche have bene knowen to be certen for the whiche some order maye be taken and noe hinderaunce to the Prince and yet some suche benefitte to the officers as thereby they maye be encoraged to serve
 10 the more paynefullye & somewhat the more be enabled to serve and yet reape no more benefit then shall countervayle their charges spent in the Princés service where otherwise if pore men shalbe preferred to theis offices the Queenes Maiestie maye be worse served to be considered of.

for the better execucion of the said office There woulde be a Commission for 15 the same office whiche wantinge the Queenes Maiestye cannot be so well served as otherwise her highnes may be and yet noe Iniurye offred vnto the Subiectes vnles they shall muche abuse theym selves in refusinge to doe conuenient service for the Prince it needeth not be vsed whiche if they shall refuse to doe It weare meete to have suche Commission as might enforce theym and also punyshe theym and any 20 other notorious malefactours concerninge the same office.

A commission verie necessarie for the office.

Thys Platte of orders and state of the office is the first and surest meane whereby the Quenes Maiestie may be most truly, aptelie and honorable serued, if it may be throwghlie obserued in all poyntes /

The seconde is that the Maister of the office be appointed and choisen suche, as be neither gallant, prodigall, nedye, nor gredye, for if any of theis, suerlie he will never be fullie lyhable to this order, but 5 make waiste, sucke the Quene, or pynche the poore, or all thre, And that he also be of suche learning wytt and experience as hable of hym self to make and devise suche shewes and devises as may best fitt and furnissh the tyme place and state with leaste burden, and to frame all other speciall appointementes to the best shewe with leaste chardge and most spede /

The thirde meane viz. to eaze or spare the greatest Disburcementes of money which riseth by employment and provision of the costliest and most sumptiest parte of theis affaires is that oute of the pryve or speciall wardrops of her Maiesties seuerall houses or the tower or greate wardrop of suche store as hath layen longe and decayed or now growen vnmete for the first purpose or to serve the present vse any lenger may be deliuered over to be ymployed to the best and ferthest stretchie of this turne (as was in Sir Thomas Cardens tyme as well oute of the hole pece as in hanginges and garmentes and other sorte) but not any other thing
 15 which is not alredy there of olde store to come from thence by any new provision but by the officers to be chosen most metest for fitnes to serve and eaze of chardge and taken and bought at the first hande for redy money /

The fourth is that redy money may be vpon reasonable request deliuered for the chepest prouision of necessaries and other Emptions in suche tyme as they may be best had by the officers appointment of 20 them which can best skill of it / And preparacion to be made of that is knowen mete to be put in a redynes to be before hande done by them ^{better} which are most meete and for more reasonable hier in hope of present payment then can be had or done vpon the soden (which asketh doble waiges for watche and hynderaunce of their aduantage in tyme of worke and gayne and greater price for seking when and where is scante and no choise nor certeyntie of payment but feare of longe forbering their money) which shall never 25 be well done by any straunger to the office, nor withoute redy money /

And this advice taking place, I dare take vpon me, that her Maiestie, shall haue more done, and better by a thirde parte for lesse chardge by a thirde parte then hetherto I haue knowen, and will yelde a iust and trewe accompte both of stuffe and money / If it please her highnes to bestowe the Mastership of the office vpon me (as I trust myne experience by acquayntaunce with those thaffaires and contynuall dealing therein by the space of xxvij or xxviij yeres deserveth being also the auncient of the office by at the leaste xxiiij of those yeres otherwise I wolde be lothe hereafter to deale nor medle with it nor in it further then apperteyneth to the clerke whose waiges and allowaunces is so small as I gyve it holy to be discharged of the toyle and attendaunce, I haue hetherto withoute recompence to my greate chardge and hynderaunce, borne the burden of the Master and taken the care and paynes of that, others haue had the thanks and 30 rewarde for, which I trust her Maiestie will not put me to, withoute the fee allowaunce and estimacion long-ing to it / nor if her highnes vouchesafe not to bestowe it vpon me to let me passe withoute recompence for that is done and paste /

If the ffee and allowaunce be thought to muche, then let what her Maiestie and honorable counsaile shall thincke mete for any man that shall supplie that burden and place to haue towards his chardges be 40 appointed of certeyntie and I will take that, and serve for as litle as any man that meanes to Deale truly so I be not to greate a loser by it /

The Costes of any thing to be done oute of this office can not be aymed at any neare estymate withoute fore knowledge what is required and loked for as howe many maskes, and whether riche or slite, what plaies banketing houses and other shewes of pastyme / and those whether statelie or meane may suffice to be 45 ordinairelie appointed for her highnes recreacion which growing to some certeyn pitche the chardge may be roved at / Or her highnes resolving vpon some certeyn yerelie somme of money which she will not passe, the Master and officers may frame to stretche the same to her highnes most honour and liking, and yet finding her contentacion served with lesse then that is appointed deale accordinglie and be aunswerable the remayn vpon accompte /

To the Queenes most excellent Magestye

5 In moste humble wyze complying, sheweth vnto your highnes : your true and faythfull subiect Bryan Dodmer. That whereas : by speciall sute which at his owne charges he made vnto your highnes in the xvijth yeare of your Reaigne, he obtayned your highnesses privay seale for payment of all suche dettes as then remayned vnpayde, in the Office of your highnesses Revells And afterwarde

10 (as deputy or servant vnto the worshippfull Thomas Blagrove esquier clerk of the saide office) did Receive in prest owt of your highnesses treasure to be accompted for so muche mony as wolde aunswere all the same dettes, saving ccc^{li} whiche was before imprested vnto the woorthippfull Iohn fforteskue esquier in Iune in the xiiijth yeare of your saide highnesses reaigne for the Charges thencefoorth the growing in the said Office. And whereas among other Creaditors contayned in the bookes of that office compiled Betweene the last of maye in the xiiijth yeare and the last of

15 october in the xvth yeare of your saide highnesses reaigne, One Iohn Arnolde late yoman of the saide Office deceased, had certayne demaundes entred and allowed vnto him for wages and wares then and there employed. which is supposed to Amownte vnto the soom of lx^{li}. / ^{or towards} Towardes the which lx^{li} or what so euer it bee he the saide Arnolde Received therof in part of payment at the handes of the saide Iohn fforteskue (and Edward Buggin clerkcomptrowler of the said Office) xxxiiij^{li} xix^s. ix^d. / which

20 was by them paid owt of the ccc^{li} which the saide fforteskue Received ^{paid owt} and in the saide xiiijth and xvth yeares of your highnesses said Reaigne therefore defalked by them as A deduccion which of equitie owght to be admitted (by the said Arnold) owte of his whole allowances. and so consequently not to be demaunded at the handes of your highnesses said subiect. for by this Reckoning there remayneth in the handes of your highnes said subiect for the saide Arnolde but only xxvj^{li}

25 iiij^d. which xxvj^{li}. iiij^d and what soever ells can be Iustly demaunded and shall appere by certificat (or debenter) from thofficers of the said office of right to appertayne to the said Arnold or any other vnpaid in the said office (for that tyme) your highnesses said subiect is and allwayes hath bene redy to paye (his owne indempnitie provided for) as he is bownde to see your highnesses & the said officers discharged. But so it is most gracious soveraigne ladye that withoute all good order equitie or good

30 conscience One Iohn Weaver of Saint Martins le graund in London silkman by culler of A certayne dett which he saith was owing to him by the said Arnold at the tyme of his decease not being for any wares or matter Employed in that office hath yet procured a letter of Atturney from thexecutor of the saide Iohn Arnold. wherby he saith he hath authoritie to receive as suche dettes as were due to the said Iohn Arnolde, especially the lx^{li} aforesaid. which he supposeth to be still due in your high-

35 nesses said office. But vtterly refuzeth to admit any deduccions though equitie & the order of thofice requier the same (never so muche) where yet there is to be Deducted in equitie and by the order of the said office not only the saide xxxiiij^{li} xix^s ix^d alredy paide as is aforesaide. But also v^{li} or vj^{li} more for xvij poore artificers whome the said Arnolde did sett to woorke in the said office and are yet vnpayde therfore exclamyng dayly against the said Arnold and the said weaver as also against your highnesses said subiect. And besides that There are sertayne other deductions to be admitted vnto your highnes said subiect aswell for his expences in suing owte your highnesses privaye seale aforesaide : as also for other iust & Reasonable demaundes heere for tediousnes omytted. All which the premisses notwithstanding : yet for quietnesse sake your highnesses said subiect hath many tymes 5 offered vnto the saide weaver (among other sooms by your highnesses saide subiect offered likewise for other respectes, then in equitye or conscience he owght to yelde) the saide soom of xxvj^{li} iij^d which seemeth to Remayne vnpayde of the saide lx^{li}. / or otherwise tabyde the order of your highnesses Lord Treasawrer : or Lord Cheefe Iustice of Ingland : or thofficers of your highnesses saide Revells : or any other arbitrament And yet neverthesse the saide Iohn Weaver hath taken his 10 coorse by the comon Lawe ^{for the same} without brynging any certificat or debenter from your highnesses saide office, contrary to equitie, cvstom, and good conscience, and also contrary to thexprest order and presyes comaundement written vnto him in your highnesses name by your highnesses said Lord Treasurer. And hath long proceded so against your highnesses saide subiect for the whole lx^{li}. by ij severall accions commenced in your highnes benche Aledging very vntruly that there was lx^{li} dely- 15 vered owt of your highnesses treasure vnto the handes of your highnesses said subiect (in the said xvijth yeare) for the vse of the saide Iohn Arnold. which yf it were true. yet then the same ^{xxxij^{li} xix^s ix^d} must be returned to your highnes againe and wilbe fownd vpon thaccompt of your Highnesses said subiect : where he demaundeth allowance but of that which was vnpaid in the said xvijth yeare. and not of the xxxij^{li} xix^s ix^d before paide by the said fforteskue and Buggyn your Highnesses officers in 20 the xiiij and xvth yeares of your highnesses Reaigne. He very vntruly also aledgeth in one of declarations that your Highnesses said subiect did promys him to paye vnto him the said soom of lx^{li} where in troth your highnesses said subiect did promys to paye only so much as then vpon pervsing & conference of the bookes should appere to remayne vnpayd (and to be due) vnto the said arnold, vpon his debenter. yet by sinister practice the said Weaver hath obtayned A verdict for that 25 surmised assumption of lx^{li} against your highnesses said subiect. And his second accion being browght against your highnesses said subiect in the same your highnesses benche is also for the same lx^{li} but it is an accion of accompt layde in the Name of William Arnolde executour to the saide Iohn Arnolde. which also yet dependeth to the great danger expences & wrongfull vexacion of your highnesses ^{said} and is said subiect like to be the vtter vndooing both of him and his : except soom speedy order be 30 taken by your highnes for Remedye. In Tender consideracion whereof : and forasmuche as your highnesses said subiect is but A ^{was a} servant & traveller to obtayne at your highnesses handes the saide dettes which long had bene vnpaid (for want of a suter for the same) And now hath ^{also} paide all suche ^{other persons} as wolde but bryng debenters and yelde sufficient dischargde for your highnes and thofficers. Maye it therefore please your highnes to graunt your said subiet not only your highnesses wrytt of Privie 35 seale to be directed to the said Iohn Weaver : and William Arnolde : commaunding them and every of them thereby personally to appeare before your highnesses cowncell in your high Cooite of Requestes then and there to Awnswere to the premisses : and further to stand to and abyde suche order and decree herein as vnto your highnesses said cowncell shall seeme to stand most agreeable to Right equitye and good conscience. But also to graunt ^{vnto} your highnesses saide subiect your most gracious writt of Eniunction to be directed to the saide Iohn weaver and william Arnolde commanding and enioyning them and either of them theier Cowncellors solicitors and attorneies and the councellers solicitors and attorneies of either of them to surcease and staye the said sutes commenced 5 as before is saide in your highnesses benche at Westminster against your sayde subiect and no further to procede therein vntill such farder order also shalbe taken therein by your highnesses said cowncell as vnto them shall seeme to be agreable to equitie and good conscience. And your highnesses said subiect shall according to his most bownden duty pray to god for the prosperous and peaceable continewance of your gracious Maiestie long in helth and Ioye to Reaigne over vs to his 10 glory and your owne everlasting cvmforte Amen.

A Collection of Payments out of the Receipt of the Exchequer from Easter Term 1560 down to 22 March 1602/3.

I add this List of Payments though it cannot, strictly speaking, be considered as a document ; but it is a fitting addition to the documents contained in this Appendix since it tells the tale of the difficulty the Officers very often had in obtaining money from the Queen's Exchequer. The List, which is nearly complete, has been compiled from the following sources, all in the Public Record Office:

- a) Books of Payments by Royal Warrant.
- b) Imprest Certificate Books (Pells).
- c) Issue Books (Pells).
- d) Order Books (Pells).

In most cases, the facts supplied by these documents have been supplemented and checked by a reference to the Warrants for Issues.

In the first column of the following Table, E.T. = Easter Term ; M.T. = Michaelmas Term ; in the fifth column, P = In prest, and S = In full satisfaction.

NOTES

NOTES

5. DOCUMENT I. A duplicate of this document is among the Additional MSS. 19256 in the British Museum : it is a copy made for Sir Henry Herbert on the occasion of one of his lawsuits. This Herbert copy, together with several other documents concerning the Office of the Revels, was printed by Halliwell-Phillipps in a small volume bearing the following title : « A Collection of Ancient Documents respecting the Office of Master of the Revels, and other papers relating to the Early English Theatre. From the Original Manuscripts formerly in the Haslewood Collection. London : Printed by T. Richards, Great Queen Street, 1870 ». The edition was limited to eleven copies, and is extremely rare.

Two years later, Halliwell reprinted the document separately, and, this time, from the Lansdowne MS. : « A Curious Paper of the Time of Queen Elizabeth respecting the Office of the Revels. Now first printed from the Lansdowne Manuscript N° 83, in the British Museum. London : Printed by Thomas Richards. MDCCCLXXII. » Only twenty copies were printed ; one of which is in the Shakespeare Memorial Library, Birmingham, and another, presented by the editor, in the British Museum (11765. bb. 25). (This I presume is the reprint which Mr E. K. Chambers dates « about 1874 », and of which he could trace no copy. Tudor Revels, p. 30. n. 1). Collier mentions this document in his History of Dramatic Poetry (I. 290) and attributes it to the Clerk of the Revels. R. W. Bond extracted from it in the Introduction to his edition of Lyly's Works, and was the first to date it 1573, as it should be. Lastly, Mr. E. K. Chambers has lately reprinted it from the Original in his Notes on the History of the Revels Office under the Tudors. A. H. Bullen. 1906.

The date of the document is given by the passage in the « Articles and Ordynaunces », where it is stated that the said articles are to be enforced in the XVth year of Elizabeth's reign, i. e. between 17 November 1572 and 16 November 1573. Moreover, the paper must have been written before 25 March 1573, for the scribe would not have left the date of the Christian year blank, had there been no possibility of the proposals being accepted in 1572 (See p. 11 l. 7-8).

I thought at one time that the author of this memorandum was the same person who concocted the elaborate « platte » printed after page 16, that is to say, Blagrove, the Clerk of the Revels (Cf. note to Table I). I had been led into that belief by a striking similarity in thought and even expression, which I considered as pointing to one writer. I accounted for the differences (e. g. the creation of an office of serjeant, omitted in the « platte ») by supposing that the « platte » might be a revised form of the first memorandum after the Lord Treasurer had objected to some of the proposals submitted to his approval. And this hypothesis seemed to be supported by the date of the « platte » which, I think, must have been written a little later, in 1574 (See note to Table I).

But on further consideration, I adhere to Mr E. K. Chambers's opinion, that the two memoranda were drawn up by two different persons. At any rate, the author of the former cannot have been Blagrove, for he seems not to have known the office in the time of Sir Thomas Cawerden, whilst Blagrove had been acting as Clerk since 1550, at the latest. I find it less easy to attribute this plan of reform to Buggyn, as Mr E. K. Chamber does (Tudor Revels, 49). There is not the least positive evidence in favour of such an hypothesis, and there is, on the contrary, an improbability against it. Evidently the writer of the memorandum does not sympathise with the inferior officers; he unequivocally hints at their insubordination, and dogmatically states that « it is not for Inferiour officers to repugne the Master his doings hym selfe beinge in place albeit there be never so greate cause » (p. 10); he is particularly strict in the case of the Clerk-Controller, whom he sets under the incessant and absolute control of both the Master and the Serjeant. Now, Buggyn was Clerk-Controller and one of the severely treated « inferiour officers »; unless we assume he had an uncommon share of humility and abnegation, it is difficult to understand why he should have been so hard upon himself, and why he should have insisted so much upon offences which he had undoubtedly committed more than once. On the other hand, the writer speaks from the point of view of the Master; he thinks it advisable to create a new post, that of Serjeant, the result of which creation would have been to « ease » the Master, that is to say, to take all the disagreeable work off the Master's hands, and he insists upon the necessity of confirming the Master's authority over the other officers. All this points to some person of authority, to some high officer in one of the offices which often had to do with the Revels, such as the Tents, the Wardrobe, the Works, and even the Lieutenancy of the Tower. To choose between these different officers would be idle and dangerous.

12. John Houlte. As will be seen at p. 70, John Bridges, Yeoman of the Revels, surrendered his patent on July 1, 1550, and on that day Holte was appointed Yeoman. Holte, however, had been acting as Yeoman ever since the beginning of 1547, for in a book of expenses (from February 1 to February 28, 1 Edward VI) he is styled « Yeoman », and on the « ffyrst daye of Aprill » of the same year, an inventory was taken by Sir Thomas Cawerden and John Barnard of « all suche the kinges Masking Garmentes with thappurtinaunces Riche Bassis & Couering of bardes as were delyueryd owte of the Custody of Iohn Briges Late yoman of the same into the Tuycion & Saff kep[ing] of Iohn Holte nowe yoman of the same Revelles » (Loseley MSS. Roll xxxi). Such deputyships seem to have been frequent. They were legitimate from the very terms of the patent (See e. g. p. 70 l. 14). The person thus recognised received the wages in his own name, and in every way acted as the nominee of the office; but he could not be formally appointed to the post before the decease or the resignation of the patentee. Of course a deputyship had no other value than that of a private arrangement between the officer and his substitute; and the Crown remained free to appoint whomsoever it liked when the office became vacant. This is what happened when Holte died: Bowl had been acting as deputy for several years, but his hopes of a reversion were frustrated (S. p. 408 & 72).

This situation of Yeoman of the Revels was but one of the many posts which Holte accumulated during his lifetime. On 26 January 1546-7, he was granted, jointly with Richard Nueport, the « office of Taylours to his [Henry VIII's] Sonne and the makinge of all the garmentes robes & apparell as well of his said sonne as also of the lyveries of his Gentlemen henchemen and fotemen with thapparell of his stable » (Cf. the Warrant made out in I Eliz. for the payment of arrears unpaid since the appointment. Record Office. Warrants for Issues. Parcel 112). On 14 October 1550, he was appointed by Edward VI, in survivorship with Richard Longman, « yeoman of our Pavyllions and tentes » (Patent Rolls. 4 Edward VI. p. 3. m. 12). In this patent Holte is styled « one of the Sewers of our Chamber ». An entry of payments of fees by vertue of Holte's three distinct patents is to be found in Lansdowne MSS. 156. f^o 99. He died between 1 December & 11 December 1571 (Cf. p. 130 l. 26; 131 l. 1, and Arnold's patent).

Mr E. K. Chambers suggests (Tudor Revels, 25) that the Yeoman of the Revels was the « John Holt momer » who helped the Westminster boys in their representations. This I very much doubt : the name was common at the time, and, besides, our officer of the Revels was a totally untaught man, not being even able to sign his name (See pp. 79 & sqq.) ; he, therefore, could scarcely have been an actor.

22. Travers Seriaunt of the said office. John Travers was a Gentleman Sewer of the King's Chamber. He was appointed Serjeant of the Pavilions and Tents on September 28, 1539, after the death of John Farlyon.

Sir Thomas Cawerden. For a life of Sir Thomas Cawerden, compiled from his own papers, see Hist. MSS. Commission, VIIth Report. Appendix, p. 596-7. He had been granted the Mastership of the Pavilions and Tents in survivorship with Sir Anthony Aucher. The latter was also Master and Treasurer of the Jewels and Plate (Record Office. Declared Accounts. Audit Office. Bd. 1533). For Sir Thomas Cawerden's appointment as Master of the Revels in March 1544-5, with retroactive effect from 16 March 1543-4, see p. 53.

6. 2. John Barnard. His patent as Clerk-Controller of the Tents, Hales and Pavilions as well as of the Revels and Masks, was granted on the same day as Sir Thomas Cawerden's as Master (See Patent Rolls. 26 H. VIII. p. 14. m. 23).

18. The Clerke of the workes beinge a straunger. The Clerk of the Works was not quite a « stranger » to the Revels, for there was always a sort of connection between the Works and the Revels, even after the Clerk of the Works had ceased to make out the Accounts of the Revels. Cf. note to 148. 22.

19. Thomas Philippes. Mr. E. K. Chambers is wrong when he says that « the first mention of Thomas Philipps as Clerk is on May 29, 1549 » (Tudor Revels, 10). His patent, dated 7 May 1546 is in the Record Office (see page 66 of this volume). In the account belonging to the year I Edward VI (already quoted) « Thomas Phelippes Clarke » receives a payment for « xxiiij daies at xvij^d [a] daie ».

21. The Quenes Maiestye... devided the said Office.... The division was made in January 1559-60, after Cawerden's death. Sackford's patent as Master of the Pavilions, Hales and Tents is dated 20 January 2 Eliz. (Record Office. Patent Books. Auditors. vol. 9), that is two days after the patent appointing Sir Thomas Benger Master of the Revels was made out (See page 54).

23. Sir Thomas Benger. According to Chalmers (Suppl. Apology for the Believers &c., 194), Thomas Berenger, or Benger, was the second son of Robert Berenger of Marlborough, in Wiltshire, by Agnes, the daughter of William Vavasor of Spaldington, in Yorkshire. He was made a knight of the Carpet in 1553 (Strype, Memor. iii. App. 7). In 1554, he was accused of witchcraft and committed to the Fleet (Acts of the Privy Council, N. S. vol. V, 139 & 143); on 7 July 1555, he was bailed (Ibid. 157). On the 27th of April 1557, he was again brought before the Privy Council, and once more committed to prison (Ibid. vol. VI, 81 & 82). Being sent to the Assizes at Oxford, he was probably acquitted (Ibid. 101 & 108). Again, in October 1557, Sir Thomas Benger and one Robert Runneger, were found indebted to the Queen « for xxx^{tie} foder of leade », and « the Lorde Tresourer was this daie [27 October] spoken to cause proces to be awarded out of theschequier against the said Bengier and his suerties for the payment of his parte » (Ibid. vol. VI, 191). Chalmers thinks (Op. cit. 195) that his sufferings under Mary were considered when he was appointed Master of the Revels by Elizabeth, but upon what ground I know not. The patent appointing him to the Mastership of the Revels in Jan. 1559-60 is printed at page 54 of this volume. A paper endorsed : « A liberate for Sir Thomas Benger knyght, dat. xxviiij febr. 3 Eliz. » is to be found in Warrants for Issues (Parcel 113). Collier mentions (I. 185) a Warrant under the Privy Seal dated 18th of April 1566, by vertue of which Sir Thomas Benger was granted a license to purchase in England, and to export for his own advantage, 300 tons of beer.

Chalmers discovered more than a hundred years ago that Benger's will was proved on the 27th of March 1577, and he inferred therefrom that the Master of the Revels died in March 1577 (Apology for the Believers &c. 482); this statement has been accepted as an indubitable fact by all the historians of the stage down to Mr E. K. Chambers (Tudor Revels, 56). But this is an error which I am now able to disprove. It is true that the testament was proved in 1577; but it was made on 25 June 1572, and there is no doubt whatever that Benger was dead in 1573, as appears from a certificate made out by the end of that year, to be found in the Imprest Certificate Books (Record Office. Vol. I. 1569-1573. f^o 42 v.), and copied out, probably by one of the Officers of the Revels, on the back of the title-page of the Account Book for May 1572-October 1573 (See page 152 of this volume). In this document (omitted by Cunningham in his Extracts from the Accounts of the Revels), Benger is said to be « deceased ». The same mention occurs again in another certificate dated « xxth of January 1575 » (i. e. 1575-6), in the Imprest Certificate Books (Pells. vol. 2. 1573-1587. f^o 17 v.), and it is confirmed by the privy seal of the 7th of June 1573, referred to in the foresaid certificate (See page 152 l. 19-20), where, again, we hear of the « last time of Sir Thomas Benger, knight, late master of the same office ». I give it in full (the italics are mine) : « Elizabeth by the grace of God queen of England ffraunce & Ireland defendour of the faythe &c. To the threasurer & Chambrelayns of our Exchequier greetinge. Whereas it apperith by a Lidger booke subscrybed with the handes of thofficers of our Revells that there is growen due vnto certen Creditors for stuf delyuered into the said office with suche necessaryes and prouicions as are incident vnto the same and for wages due vnto certen artificers & laborers woorking and attendinge thereon especially aboute the new makeinge translating fittinge furnyshinge garnyshinge and settinge furthe of sondry Commodityes [sic] Tragedyes try-Yevin vnder our prevy Seale at our manour of Grenewich the seavinth day of June, in the fiftenth yere of our reign (i. e. 1573.) — (Record Office. Warrants for Issues. Parcel 119).

The date of this document can be taken as a downward limit for Benger's death. On the other hand, we know he was still living on 12 July 1572, for on that day stuff was delivered to him out of the Great Wardrobe (See page 187). This is the latest mention I have been able to discover concerning him, and we may therefore say that he died between 12 July 1572 and 7 June 1573. Moreover, if we remember that Benger says in his will, written on 25 June 1572, that he is « sick in body » (Somerset House. Prerogative Court. 11 Daugthy), that Fortescue and Sackford signed the books of the Revels as early as June 1572 (See page 155), it is safe enough to surmise that by June 1572 Benger's days were numbered, and that his death must have taken place soon after.

Several suppositions have been made to explain Benger's secession. Collier remarked (I. 199) that « at his death, Benger was greatly in debt », and from this fact deduced that « probably his embarrassments might interfere with the discharge of his official duties ». Mr Fleay boldly conjectured that Benger retired because he could not agree with Sussex, the new Lord Chamberlain (Chron. Hist. 45). Mr E. K. Chambers, evidently influenced by Collier, reminds us of Benger's debts, and hints that his extravagant and unbusinesslike administration might be the cause why « temporary provision was made for the conduct of the Office » (Tudor Revels, 26). All these hypotheses are, of course, overturned by the new documents we now possess concerning Benger's death. There is no necessity to burden his character with the foibles of incapacity or extravagance : the simple reason why poor Benger had no longer to deal in the business of the office was that he was bringing « his boke of count » to a severer judge than the Queen's Auditors.

24. Henrye Sakeford. The patent appointing him Master of the Tents is dated 20 Jan. 2 Eliz. He was one of the Grooms of the Privy Chamber (See Signet Office. Docquets. Aug. 1587), and Keeper of the Privy Purse. In August 1587, he was appointed to the Mastership of the Toils (Ibid.); but he had begun to perform the duties of Master of the Toils much earlier, for, in 1576, we find him thus denominated in a document in the Record Office (State Papers. Dom. Eliz. cx. 536), which fact is corroborated by a Warrant for Issue of 25 Eliz. (1582-3).

Among the State Papers (Dom. Eliz. cclxxix. 1601. 20 May) is a certificate, similar to the one printed in this volume at page 50, establishing Sackeford's order of precedence.

25. Mr Tamworth of her Maiesties privie Chamber. In a Warrant, the date of which is torn off, but which belongs to the year 1559-60, John Tamworth is styled «Groom of the Privy Chamber & master of our Toylls » (Record Office. Warr. for Issues. Parcel 113). He was also Keeper of the Privy Purse (Cunningham, Extr. from the Acc. of the Revels. xx). In 1561-2, he gave a New Year's gift to the Queen (Nichols. Prog. Eliz. I. 127). In a privy seal, dated 23 May 1572, one « Iohn Tamworthe arm. » is given as son to « Christopher, defunctus » (Record Office. Privy Seals. May. 14 Eliz.). « Among the Lansdowne Charters..... N^o 16, is the « Account of John Tamworth, Esq. Executor of the late Lady Denny, widow » dated 1555-6 » (Madden, Privy Purse Expenses of Pr. Mary. p. 227). Lady Denny was the widow of Sir Anthony Denny, one of the gentlemen of the Privy Chamber to Henry VIII. See also Camden, Annales, p. 115, edit. 1616. Frankf.

35. The Storehouses of theym all &c. At the time when this document was written, the Revels were stored, together with the Tents and the Toils, in the dissolved hospital of St John of Jerusalem (See p. 47-9). Though the enumeration of the different storehouses of the Revels is outside the scope of this book, it will be useful to give here a brief account of the successive removals of the office. About 1540, we hear of the Revels being stored with the Tents at Warwick Inn. In June 1543, Warwick Inn no doubt proving too small for the safe keeping of such cumbersome affairs as the Royal Pavilions &c, these were transported to the Charterhouse. But the Charterhouse was alienated, the Tents had to be displaced again, and they were this time stored in a house which had lately been granted to Sir Thomas Cheyney, and which was situated in Blackfriars. The removal took place in March 1544-5. As this fact has been unknown till now, I give an extract from a Decree of 1 March 4 Edward VI, made by the Court of Augmentations and which is my authority for that statement : « Edwardus Sextus &c. Omnibus ad quos..... Memorandum for asmuch as it is duellie proved byfore the chauncellor of the Court of the Augmentacions that the Master and officers of the kinges maiesties Tentes doe occupie to the K. maiesties vse one howse within the precincte of the late Blacke fryers of London, belonging to Sir Thomas Cheyney Knight treasurer of the Kinges maiesties most honorable house for the lying of the Kinges maiesties Tentes there, and that the same house hath byn occupied to that vse without any Recompense or rent therfore poaed [paid] to the said Sir Thomas Cheyney from the feast of the Anunciacion of our Ladie which was in the xxxvjth yere of the late kinge henrie theight which house is of the yerelie rent of fyve poundes. In cuius rei testimonium has litteras nostras fieri fecimus patentes. Teste Ricardo Sackvile vij^{mo} die marcij anno regni nostri quarto » (Loseley MSS. Parcel 244. N^o VI). Stowe (Survey of London. p. 162, ed. W. J. Thoms), says that St John's « was employed as a store-house for the king's toils and tents, for hunting, and for the wars »; this I am inclined to take as an error — Stowe is not free from errors — as it is difficult to reconcile such a statement with the facts supplied by the preceding documents.

All this time the Revels had remained at Warwick Inn; but on his accession, Edward VI had them removed to Blackfriars, where they were again united to the Tents, though the two were in separate buildings (See Account of the « Charges as well of the Removing of the kinges highnes Revelles & maskes with thappertenaunces from Warwyck Inne vnto the late dissolved howse of black ffryers..... from the firste daie of ffebruarij in the ffirste yere of our said Soueraigne lordes Reigne vnto the xxvijth daie of the same monythe », in the Loseley Collection, and to be published in my forthcoming volume on the Revels). The Revels and the Tents remained in Blackfriars until the death of Sir Thomas Cawerden, when they were again displaced and removed to the Hospital of St John's (See page 49 l.31), where they remained till the beginning of James I's reign.

38. Syr Thomas Carden... hadde the dealinges of all three offices at once. In the heading to the ledger containing the Accounts from 4 Edward VI to 1 & 2 Ph. & Mary, I find the Toils included among the various business that Cawerden had to superintend. It runs as follows: « Thoffyces of the Tentes & revelles with the Toyles lorde of Mysrule Maskes Playes and other Pastimes tryumphes Banketinghowses and other preparacions actes & devices therto incidente apparte-nente and accustomed made done furnished attended & setforthe of those offices ». (Loseley MSS. XII).

7. 23. Banquetinge houses. One may have an idea of the gorgeousness of such banquetting-houses from the following description given by Stowe (Chron., edit. 1615. p. 688) : « This yeere [1581] (against the comming of certaine Ambassadors out of France) by her maiesties appointment, on the sixt and twentieth day of March in the morning (being Easter day) a banquetting house was begun at Westminster, on the Southwest side of her maiesties palace of White hall, made in manner & forme of a long square 332 in measure about, 30. principals made of great masts being 40. foote in length a peece, standing vpright, betweene euery one of the Masts, ten foote asunder and more, the wals of this house were closed with canuas, and painted all the outsides of the same artificially, with a worke called rustike much like stone. This house had two hundred, nintie and two lights of glasse. The sides within the same house was made with x heights of degrees for people to stand vpon : and the top of this house was wrought cunningly vpon canuas works of iuie and holly, with pendants made of wickar roddes, and garnished with Bay, Rue, and all manner of strange floures garnished with spangles of gold, as also beautified with hanging toscans made of hollie and iuie with all manner of strange fruits, as pomegranates, oranges, pom-pions, cucumbers, grapes, with such like spangled with gold and most richly hanged : betwixt these workes of baies & iuie were great spaces of canuas, which was most cunningly painted, the clouds with starres, the sunne and sun-beames, with diuerse other coates of sundry sorts belonging to the Queenes maiestie most richly garnished with gold. There were of all manner of persons working on this house, to the number of 375. two men had mischances, the one broke his legge and so did the other. This house was made in three weekes and three dayes, and was ended the eighteenth of Aprill, and cost 1744*l.* 19*s.* ».

Cf. the accounts for a similar banqueting-house at pp. 163-8 of this volume.

9. 18. It should be noticed here that the writer of this memorandum does not speak of the Yeoman's duties. No doubt he considered the Yeoman, not as a real officer, but as a kind of higher workman, which indeed he was, being as a rule a tailor. In Sir Thomas Cawerden's accounts, the Yeoman is never set among the officers, but always among the tailors (See e. g. 79; 84 &c., & 87).

25. A platte forme of certen ordynaunces &c. In a note to page 34 of his Tudor Revels, Mr E. K. Chambers suggests that this may be a reference to the « Constitucions howe the King's Revells ought to be usyd » preserved among the Cawerden papers (printed in Kempe, Loseley Manuscripts, 93). This is impossible since the writer says that the « platte forme » was « delyvered over to some of the Quenes Maiesties most honorable privye Counsell », whilst the « Constitucions » refer to a King. And, indeed, at page 12, Mr E. K. Chambers has rightly said that the said « Constitucions » must fall between 1544 and 1553.

40. setto. i. e. « set to ».

10. 3. Vnderstande. Mr. E. K. Chambers reads (Tudor Revels, 35) « vnderstanded ». This is not correct, for the word is not surmounted by any sign of abbreviation. « Vnderstande » is simply a variant of « vnderstonde » an old form of the past participle of « understand ». See, for one instance among many, Chaucer's Works, Group B. 520.

11. 41. Sight of perspective. This statement is a very important one for the history of the stage in England. Its meaning will be fully discussed elsewhere.

12. 19. Prest monye. The List of Payments, printed at page 419 & sqq., shows that from 1567 to 1572 no imprest was advanced ; but from 1573 onwards, imprests occur quite regularly.

25. Greate Warderobe. The Great Wardrobe was situated near the parish church of St Andrew, on the east side of the Blackfriars precinct. There were minor wardrobes in the palaces of Westminster, Greenwich, Windsor, Richmond, in the Tower &c. For deliveries of stuff from the different wardrobes, see Subject Index, under « Wardrobe ».

32. As as. Sic for as.

13. 40. Inuentorye. For a specimen of such inventories, see pp. 18-46.

14. 2. Other other. Sic for other.

15. 1. Concernynge the lendingge furthe &c. See page 409.

14. A Commission. The commission here asked for was granted to Tyllney in 1581. See page 51.

TABLE I. The original consists of a folio sheet, written on one side, and of a smaller one, which is a kind of commentary on the former ; they have been numbered by the British Museum N^o 1 & N^o 2 respectively. This document is evidently by Blagrave, since the writer speaks of his « waiges and allowaunces » as Clerk (See page 17 1.32). Its date can be fixed approximately. It must have been written after Holte's death in 1571, for, had the old yeoman been living, Blagrove could not have boasted he was the « auncient of the office by at the leaste xxiiij of those yeres » (Page 17 l.30) ; nor can it have been written in Benger's lifetime, for the latter was appointed in January 1559-60, and twenty-four years' seniority over him would have implied that Blagrove had entered the office before January 1535-6, which is impossible (See note to 68. 1). Benger, as I have shown, died between 12 July 1572 and 7 June 1573 ; this gives us 12 July 1572 as an upward limit for the date of the document. Now, after 1572, the most ancient officer of the Revels, next to Blagrove, was Buggyn, appointed on 30 December 1570 and Blagrove was therefore thinking of him (Buggyn) when he said he (Blagrove) was the « auncient of the office » by at least twenty-four years. As on the other hand he states that he had had « acquayntaunce with those thaffaires » of the Revels « and contynuall dealing therein by the space of xxvij or xxviii yeres », we are to conclude that when the document was written, Buggyn had been more than three and less than four years in the office of the Revels. In other words, if we bear in mind the date of his patent, the document was written at some intermediate date between 30 December 1573 and 30 December 1574. This agrees perfectly well with the date of Blagrove's entrance into Cawerden's service, that is in 1546, at which time, as I suggest in my note to 68. 1, he must have begun to have that acquaintance with the affairs of the Revels of which he is so proud.

An objection could be made to the preceding argumentation. As I shall show in my note to 58. 1, there is every probability that Buggyn began acting as deputy to Leys c. 1566 ; but then we should be obliged to admit that the document was written in 1570 at the latest, which date, as we have seen, is impossible. The discrepancy can easily be explained away. Blagrove amplified his own time of service by adding all the years of his deputyship and even of his informal assistance ; but in his opinion, Buggyn could not be considered as having entered the office before he was formally appointed ! This is perfectly human.

The object of this « Platte » of Orders, as well as of Document I, is now pretty clear. After Benger's death, the Lord Treasurer thought it was a convenient time to reform an office to which, as a man with puritanical tendencies, he surely had no liking, and especially to reduce expenses which weighed heavily upon the Queen's Exchequer. He seems to have considered that the best remedy was to grant the office to some one who would take it « in ferme after a rate » (See page 6 l.41), or, at least, to suppress some of the charges, such as the « airings » and to lessen the number of officers. He asked the opinion of some personage outside the Revels but who had some acquaintance with the working of the office ; Blagrove being the most ancient among the remaining officers of the Revels was also consulted. Document I and the « Platte » of Orders were the answers to Burghley's questions. They must not have been much to his liking. The writer of Document I flatly disapproved of the idea of giving the office in ferm and of suppressing the airings : to the Treasurer's desire of reducing the number of officers, he coolly opposed the necessity of creating a new officer. Blagrove, who could not have spoken so freely to the Treasurer, prudently passed over the question of the ferm and of the officers, and confined himself to purely technical points, which were calculated to bring a little more order into the management of the office, but not to diminish the expenses very much. And he seized this opportunity to petition for the mastership. The opposition which seems to have been made to the Treasurer's efforts at reform, together with Blagrave's and Tyllney's adverse intrigues to obtain the mastership, were probably the cause why the vacancy was not filled till 1579.

18 & 30. The MS. offers a curious example of the use of the inverted semicolon (:) as a mark of punctuation. In mediaeval handwritings, the inverted semicolon held an intermediate position between our modern semicolon and our comma. I have preserved it in my transcript as it is interesting in a paleographical point of view.

17. 10. Privye or speciall wardrops. See note to 12. 25.

14. Hanginges. In the Loseley MSS., I have found frequent mentions of hangings « cut into clothes for players or masquers ». See, for instance, pp. 21 l.15; 22 l.25; 40 l.18 of this volume.

28. To bestowe the Mastership of the office vpon me. Blagrave's wishes were not to be gratified, as we shall see later on (note to 68. 1).

31. I wolde be lothe hereafter to deale nor medle with it. Blagrave was as good as his word : from 1579 (i. e. after Tyllney's appointment) to the end of 1581, he refused to sign the books; and in the Declared Account for 1 Nov. 1580 — 31 October 1581 (Record Office. Audit Office. Bd. 2045. Roll 6), we find Tyllney charging the Queen for « twice writing, ingrossing, compiling and keping of one lidgier boke of this office by reason there is no Clerke ». In the same Declaration, the Auditor has written the following note : « In former yeres the Clarke Comptroler and the Clerke of Thoffice were wontt to subscribe the said lidgeard Book with the Mr » ; from which it appears that the Clerk-Controller seems to have sided with Blagrave against Tyllney. Blagrave must then have been taken to task, for in the following year (1582-3) he began again signing the books ; but henceforth, the Accounts were more and more badly kept, to the loss of the historians of the drama.

18. DOCUMENT III. Inventory of the Stuff of the Revels. This valuable document containing the descriptions of a score of Masques, till now unknown to the dramatic historian, is one of the treasures preserved in the Loseley Collection. It forms part of one of the two ledgers indexed in the Historical MSS. Commission (VIIth Report. pp. 606 & 612), and in which are recorded all the expenses for the Tents and Revels from 4 Edward VI to 1 Elizabeth. As the papers are in a temporary arrangement, I have thought it best not to give this Inventory any reference number ; but it should be said that the ledger is now marked XIII.

The extract here given consists of three parts : 1° a survey of the state of the Revels stuff in 1555 when the last inventory was taken, together with an account of the different masques in which the stuff was employed (pp. 19-22) ; 2° an enumeration of all the stuffs received from the Royal Wardrobe, with their employment (pp. 23-36) ; 3° a description of the state in which the masquing garments were found when the new inventory was taken, i. e. c. April or May 1560 (See page 37 l.35). Parts I & II form what was then called a rear-account (See note to 330. 15) ; Part III is the inventory properly so called. Such inventories were made every time a new Master or a new Yeoman was appointed. This one was made at Benger's own request (See III l. 4-6). Similar documents are preserved in the Loseley Collection, and will be printed in my next volume.

The MS. is a good specimen of the office work of the period ; only the scribe has a constant habit of surmounting his n's & m's with the sign (\cap) ; I thought at first this was the sign of abbreviation sometimes used in Latin MSS. ; but after a closer study of the document I came to the conclusion that it is but a flourish, and therefore took no notice of it in my transcription.

4. Sir John Gage ; Sir Robert Rochester ; Sir Francis Inglefeld. For the biographies of these three statesmen, see Dictionary of Nat. Biography, vols. xx. 350 ; xlix. 72 ; xvii. 372.

19. 34. Rychard Leys. He was the Clerk-Controller. The only facts I am able to bring touching his biography are : 1^o a mention of him in Sir Thomas Cawerden's will : « Also I gyue and bequethe vnto Rycharde Leys of London twenty powndes by the yere.... Also I gyue and bequeth vnto the same Rycharde Leys all such offall stuffe and lumber of tentes and other old howses and tymber as ys now remaynyng within the place of offyce of the Tentes » (Loseley MSS.) ; 2^o a « licentia Edmundo Harman alienandi Manerium de Thirrefeld & in Comitatu Buck Ricardo Leys » (Patent Rolls. 37 Henry VIII. p. 8). He died c. 1570 (See page 58 l. 17). Cf. also note to 56.

21. 6. Albomas. This is a blunder for Albortyes, i. e. Albanese, as I have ascertained by a comparison with the inventory of 1555, preserved among the Loseley MSS., and which contains the original description from which this one was copied. As it is impossible to read Albonias, the scribe being unusually particular about the dotting of his i's, I have let the error stand.

22. 32. Rewe. i. e. rewed, as is clear from another description of the same masque in the Loseley Collection.

23. 9. Of of. Sic for of.

19. They were all taken away by the straungers. Rifling was a not uncommon accident in Court festivities. Similar mentions occur at pp. 202 l.27 ; 338 l.24, and we have an account of the riotous onset of the « King's gard & other gentyllmen » who « by fors karryed away » a pageant & besides broke the heads of the poor men that were set to keep it (Brewer. II. 1495).

25. Sir Edward Walgrave. See Dictionary of National Biography, lix. 13. It is not known that Waldegrave, though he was soon to be sent to the Tower, superintended the preparations for Elizabeth's Coronation (See the Accounts of Sir Edward Waldegrave &c. for the Coronation of Q. Elizabeth among the Exchequer Papers, Queen's Remembrancer's Depart. Bd. 429. N^o 4). A letter of Queen Katherine Parr, recommending Edward Waldegrave for a lease in reversion of the manor farm of Chipley in Suffolk, is printed in the Correspondence of Archbishop Parker (Parker Soc.) p. 19-20.

26. 16. Eares. A curious spelling for hairs.

22. Fro. The scribe wrote first from, then crossed out the m.

24. Grasiers. At page 28, they are called « Ientlemen of the contrey ». Since the extension of sheep-farming towards the end of the XIVth century, there had grown up a very active opposition to the gentlemen who took to what was called « enclosing », because it dispensed with the necessity of employing many servants, and therefore pauperized a great number of labourers. See Becon's Jewel of Joy (Works, 1564, II. f^o xvi, quoted in Furnivall's Stubbes, I. p. 290) ; & William Stafford, Examination of certayn ordinary Complaints (New Shak. Soc.), p. 17 & passim.

28. 16. Shroff Tuisdaye. i. e. 1558-9 (See page 94 l.28).
30. 4. Twelff night. i. e. 1559-60, since the stuff was delivered «in the tyme of Sir Thomas Benger».
31. 27. Mittons. Fairholt (Costume. pp. 133-4) gives extracts from a «Tale of King Edward and the Shepherd» from which it appears that mittens and a staff were characteristic articles of a shepherd's dress.
32. 21. Twelff nighte. i. e. 1559-60. See page 19 l. 22 and note to 30. 4.
34. 40. A pley by the children of the chappelle. Since the stuff was delivered to Sir Thomas Benger, the play was performed between Christmas 1559 (the date when Benger entered the Office of the Revels) and April or May 1560, the approximate date at which the Inventory was made.
44. Signatures. The bottom of the page has been much injured by damp: Rychard Leys's signature has disappeared.
37. 12. Sir Richard Sackevyle. See Dictionary of Nat. Biog. vol. L. 95.
14. Sir Walter Myldmey. See Dict. of Nat. Biography, xxxvii. 374. As may be seen from the letter here printed, Mildmay was already acting as Chancellor of the Exchequer in 1560, though, according to Dict. of Nat. Biography, he was appointed only in 1566.
27. Benger desireth that he maye declare &c. Cf. page III l. 4-6.
33. The rest being fees incydente. Cf. page III l. 7-9.
39. 17. Nusquams. These probably were allegorical personages (Cf. the «posye of poco a poco»).
26. Musquams. Sic for Nusquams.
40. 12. Gyven awaye by the &c. The scribe had written first:
- gyven awaye by the Mr
in y^e queenes presence.
- He afterwards crossed out the word Mr and interlined maskers; but he forgot to correct by into to.
41. 12. Wrether. Sic for wreathed.
21. Garded garded. Sic for garded.
42. 7. Wookes. Sic for workes.
45. 6. Silvuer. In the MS. the word is written: «silvu^r»; I have expanded the overwritten «r» into «er» as usual; but I have a suspicion that the scribe did not mean any contraction here.
47. DOCUMENT IV. Collier (I. 232 n. 1) and Mr E. K. Chambers (Tudor Revels, 20) maintain that this survey was made before 1571; and their reason is that, in the document, Burghley is styled «Sir William Cecyll». But this is obviously a slip of the pen, since the writer has added «Lorde Treasurer of Englund» (See page 47 l.11). Besides, Tyllney, Honnyng and Kirkham are mentioned as «Master», «Clerk-Controller», and «Yeoman», respectively (See page 48 ll.9, 18 & 24). The mention of Kirkham's name gives 28 April 1586 as an upward limit for the date of the document; for though Kirkham began acting as yeoman in 1581 (see note to 48. 2), Necton, who signed the survey, says (page 49 l.20) he has «seen euerye the patentes of the saied seuerall Officers of the Revelles», a statement which he could not have made before Kirkham was formally appointed. A downward limit is supplied by the fact that Thomas Graves, Surveyor of the Works, was present when the survey was made, for it is clear from a Declared Account of the Works in the Record Office (Audit Office. 2414. N° 16) that Thomas Graves died between 31 March 1586 and 31 March 1587 (In the heading to the Account March 1586 — March 1587, it is said : « As by one greate Ligier Booke... subscribed partelie by thandes of Thomas Graves late Surveyor of her Maiesties saide woorkes deceased, and partelie by thandes of Thomas Blaggrave now Surveyor of her highnes saide woorkes succeding the saide Thomas Graves.. »). We can therefore date this survey between 28 April 1586 and 31 March 1587.

4-5. Graves ; Fowler. I had no difficulty in identifying the persons here meant, for the Accounts of the Works supply us with a complete list of all the officers of the Works, in the time of Elizabeth. Thomas Graves was appointed Surveyor on 10 November 20 Eliz., succeeding Lewis Stocket (appointed 11 March 6 Eliz.). As to his death, see preceeding note. Fowler died in 1589 (See Record Office. Declared Accounts. Audit Office. Works. 2414. N° 18).

6. Colebrand. He had been appointed Master Carpenter, in survivorship with John Russel, by a patent dated 8 February 7 Eliz.

7. Lovell. The name has been supplied by the Declared Account of the Works for 1586-7, already referred to.

Necton. Collier (I. 232) and Mr E. K. Chambers (Tudor Revels, 20) print Norton. The handwriting of the MS. is very legible, and I do not think there can be any doubt about the spelling of the name. Such is also the opinion of one of the superintendents in the MSS. Room of the British Museum, whom I consulted.

15. 1581. This is a mistake for 1561, since Winchester died in 1572 and Richard Sackville in 1566. Probably, the scribe wrote «8» from habit, the document having been written in the « eighties ».

25. Wingfield. He was son to Sir Anthony Wingfield, the Controller of the Household to Henry VIII and Edward VI. In a Warrant for Issues (Parcel 117), dated 27 April 11 Elizabeth (1569), he is given as « gentleman usher ». He probably was the same Anthony Wingfield, who, on 28 May 1591, obtained the Office of verge-bearer « coram domina Regina ad festum sancti Georgij apud Castrum Windsore » (Record Office. Patent Books. Auditors. vol. 10). He died in 1593 (Dict. Nat. Biog. lxii. p. 182).

32. Roberte Harvy. He succeeded Holte as yeoman of the Tents on 11 December 1571 (Patent Books. Auditors. vol. 9). A document concerning a lawsuit between Robert Harvy and John & Andrew Richards about lands in Wakefield and Alverthorpe, is preserved in the Record Office among the Proceedings of the Court of Requests (Bdle 61. N° 80).

36. Beare. Read beer.

48. 2. Kyrkham. His patent is printed at page 74 of this volume. It is dated 28 April 1586; but therein it is expressly said that, at that time, Kirkham had already served in the office. In fact, he had begun acting as deputy to the yeoman in 1581-2 (See Table II 1.74). This can be taken as the exact date of his entrance into the office, since the book for Nov. 1580-Nov. 1581 is signed by Walter Fyssh (See page 342 1.28). All I can add to the biographical data already known (the most interesting of which are the documents published by Greenstreet in the Athenæum), is that Kirkham is mentioned in a Court of Requests document (Bdle 42. N° 53) concerning a pasture in the parish of St Giles, London.

14. William Hunninges. See his patent at page 60. Can the Clerk-Controller of the Tents and Revels be the same as the « Willelmus Huninge, clericus consilij » mentioned in Lansdowne MSS. (156. f^o 99) ? or the Honnyng noticed in Cotton MSS. Otho. C. x. f^o 177 (From Madden, Privy Purse Expenses of the Princess Mary. p. 283) ? In the volume last mentioned, there is an entry for the year 1536-7 of viijd « geuen to Honnynges seruante bringing a Carpe to my ladies grace » (page 17), and again, in July 1544, xxd were « geuen to mistress Honnyng seruaunte bringing Shrimpes » (p. 160). The Clerk-Controller resigned on 21 June 1596 (See page 62 l.25) but later on, in 1603, he returned to the Office of the Revels as successor to Blagrove (State Papers. Dom. Add. vol. ix. N^o 58).

15. Thomas Hall. Evidently the same person with the Thomas Hale who was appointed « Groom of the Tents and Pavilions » by Henry VIII, and « serviens ad arma » on 2 January 1554-5 by Mary (Patent Books. Auditors. vol. 9). Thomas Hale still held the former post in 1572 for in an interrogatory written in that year he is given as « Grome of the Tentes Hales and pavilions » (Loseley Collection. vol. 243. p. 103). In the same document, he is said to have been « aged lxxvj yeres or there aboutes », which makes the date of his birth c. 1506. If he is the same as the Thomas Hall to whom a privy seal was granted in July 1570 (Record Office. Privy Seals. July 12 Eliz.) concerning lands in co. Suffolk he may have been a native of this county.

16. All. Here ends the first part of the document as it is now bound. It formerly consisted of one single folio, made up of three pieces of paper pasted together ; these pieces have been separated by the binder, thus cutting lines 15 of page 48 and 26 of page 49 in the very middle of the letters ; but the reconstitution of the words is easy enough.

49. 25. A yerlie Rente.... as was accustomed. Cf. pp. 103 & 107.

27. Enformed. See note to 48. 16.

50. DOCUMENT V. I print this document from a contemporary transcript in the Bodleian. A similar document is preserved among the Chalmers Papers in the same library (MSS. Eng. Poet. d. 13. p. 157). It has the following note : « Extracted from the College of Arms London 25 March 1799. Fra^s Townsend Windsor ». It is more concise than the one I give, and is dated « xxvjth of December » 1600 ; but the import is the same. This Townsend transcript has been published by Chalmers (Supplemental Apology. 197n.).

51. DOCUMENT VI. This document has been printed by T. E. Tomlins in the Shakespeare Society's Papers (vol. 3) and by Collier (Hist. of Dram. Literature. I. 247). Collier gives it as bearing on the formation of the Queen's Company. This, to use a favourite phrase of his, is « decidedly a mistake ». It is such a commission « for prouisione of necessaries and takeinge upp of woorckemen » as was given out as most necessary « for the better sarvice » of the Queen by both the authors of the plan of reform already mentioned. Mr. E. K. Chambers has been the first to draw attention to the importance of this document in the history of the Stage. As this is outside the scope of this work, I refer to his very good treatment of the question in his Tudor Revels, pp. 62, 73 & sqq.

53. Cawerden's patent has already been printed by Rymer (Fœdera. T. VI. P. III. 123) and by Halliwell (Collection of Ancient Documents respecting the Office of Master of the Revels. p. 1).

54. Benger's patent has already been printed in Rymer's (Fœdera. T. VI. P. IV. 93). As to his biography, see note to 6. 23.

8 & 10. Mascarum ; Mascorum. The scribe's incertitude as to the gender of this Latin word is curious but easily explained. The correct form was «masca»; but the proximity of the words «iocorum», «revellorum» frequently attracted the scribes into the wrong spelling «mascorum».

55. A duplicate of Tyllney's patent is in the Patent Books (Pells. vol. 1), and a seventeenth century copy is preserved amongst the papers which Sir Henry Herbert used for his lawsuits. Halliwell printed it from the Herbert copy in his Documents respecting the Office of Master of the Revels already referred to. There seems to be a good deal of uncertainty as to the spelling of the name; «Tyllney» is the form the Master of the Revels invariably used when he signed the books. For his biography, see Dictionary of National Biography, lvi. 399, and add the following data which may be interesting. There are in the Record Office amongst the Court of Requests Proceedings two Tyllney lawsuits; the one (Bdle 56. N° 57) concerning lands in Stepney, Middlesex; the other (Bdle 97. N° 46) concerning the stewardship of St Katherine's, Middlesex. Stowe (Chron., edit. 1615, p. 675) mentions a «Master Tilney» among divers gentlemen who went to the siege of Edinburgh Castle «of their own free wils», in 1573. This pugnacious gentleman may have been the future Master of the Revels; but he may, just as well, have been one of Edmund Tyllney's cousins. Tyllney was to be Elizabeth's last Master of the Revels. But in his lifetime several steps were taken to find him a successor. John Lyly, the dramatist, as is known from several of his letters, printed in R. W. Bond's edition of the Works, was a suitor for a reversionary grant of the Office; but in spite of the Queen's promises he was disappointed, and in 1597, George Buck, Tyllney's nephew, obtained a promise of the reversion (See Lyly's letter to Cecil, Works. i. 68). I say a promise, because there exists no enrolment of any reversionary grant to Buck before June 1603. So much so, that soon after James's accession to the throne a grant was made «vnto Edmond Tilney and Edward Glascock and the longer liver of them of thoffice of Master of the Revelles & Maskes with the fee of xl. per Annum & other duties belonging to the same. Subscribed by Mr Attorney generall» (Signet Office. Docquets. May 1603). But Buck, no doubt, succeeded in establishing his rights to the reversion, for the grant was «stayd» (See margin of the document just quoted), and three months after (June) the same office of «Master of his Maiesties Reuelles» was granted to «George Bucke esquire during his life in reuersion after the deceasse of Edmond Tilney now Master of the said Reuelles» (Record Office. Signet Office. Docquets. June 1603).

By the bye, it should be noticed that Chalmers, whose conscientious zeal cannot be too highly praised, had rightly assigned to the end of Elizabeth's reign John Lyly's solicitations for the Revels (Apology for the Believers &c. 487). But Collier, disregarding Chalmers's statement (which I believe must have been based on some document now lost), assumed that Lyly was «a petitioner to the Queen for the reversion of the place on the demise of Benger» (I. 231); and this error has been since adopted by all the historians of the stage till R. W. Bond found that Lyly's first petition must be dated 1598, thus independently going back to Chalmers's statement of the truth.

Dr Furnivall reminds me that a specimen of Tyllney's annotations on manuscripts of plays, is to be found at p. 1 of the Old Shakespeare Society edition of Sir Thomas More.

56. This is the first time, I believe, that the date of Richard Leys's appointment is made known. Collier (I. 140) only notices that in May 1551 the Clerk (sic) of the Revels was Richard Lees. Mr E. K. Chambers simply says (Tudor Revels, 10) that « before the end of Edward VI's reign he (Barnard) had been succeeded by Richard Lees ». A study of the Loseley MSS. has made me pretty sure that Leys never acted as Clerk-Controller before his formal appointment; for in the account for Christmas, 3 Edward VI (1549), Iohn Barnard received xij days' wages; and a few days after the latter's death, i. e. on September 4, 1550, the Privy Council wrote to Sir Thomas Cawerden « that the Kinges Majestie ys pleased he shall place oone of his servantes in the rowme of Iohn Bernerd, late comptroller of the Tentes & Pavillions » (Acts of the Privy Council, N. S. III. 117), which seems to prove that by that time Barnard's successor was not yet chosen. For biographical data, see note to 19. 34. In 1547-8, one « Rychard Lees of London mercer » supplied the office with velvet (Loseley MSS. R. 6); he probably was the same person who was to become Clerk-Controller a few years later.

58. 1. Edward Buggyn. On 26 April 1559, the Queen appointed Edward Buggyn « clericum & scriptorem litterarum patencium » (Patent Rolls. 1 Eliz. p. 4. m. 3); on March 2, 1570-1, he resigned, no doubt on account of his recent appointment to the Clerk-Controllership of the Revels, and the day after another patent was made out, granting Edward Buggyn and Richard Younge... « ac eorum alteri diucius viventi » the said office of « scriptor litterarum patencium » (Patent Rolls. 13 Eliz. p. 3. m. 10).

Buggyn began acting as deputy to Leys a long time before his formal appointment: in an account-book of the Tents, covering the period 30 September 1565 — 30 September 1571, Buggyn's signature appears as early as in 1566, and we should probably find it in the corresponding Revels books, if they had been preserved.

59. 18-23. The last six lines of the document are written in the margin of the original immediately below Buggyn's signature (See page 58 l.9). It has not been possible to preserve this arrangement here.

Conuenientem domum. From the Interrogatory in the Loseley Collection, already referred to, we learn interesting details concerning this house. Thomas Hale, the Groom of the Tents said that Phillips dwelt in a little house, in which one Lawrence Bywater then [1572] lived. According to the same witness, the Clerk had also the use of another house (later on transformed by one William Joyner into a school of fence) in which he stored wood as in a « waste rome ». « About the begynnyng of kinge Edwardes tyme when the same [Blackfriars] was geuen vnto..... Cardyn.. the said Phillips contynued the possessyon of it..... aboute two yeres after Mr Cardens graunte & then the said Carden removed the said Phillyps into another house called the Ankers [i. e. the Anchoret's]..... and Mr Carden placed in the said Litle howse where Bywater dwellethe one Mr Blaggrave clerk of y^e tentes » (Loseley MSS. vol. 243. 103-4). From another document in the same Collection, we learn that the Ankers house was situated « betwene the waie leadinge from Carter Lane towards bridewell.... one the northe part...., and the tenemente or gaterome and garden..... in the tenure and occupacion of Thomas Vautroly printer & bookebinder one the weste & sovthe partes » (vol. 243. 20-1).

68. 1. Thomas Blaggrave. In the Interrogatory several times mentioned, I find that, in 1572, Thomas Blaggrave « of west bedwyn in the County of Wiltshire » was « aged 50 yeres or thereabouts » (Loseley MSS. vol. 243. 105) ; he therefore was born c. 1522. From the same document we learn that in 38 Henry VIII, i. e. 1546, he had already entered Sir Thomas Cawerden's service. He must at the same time have begun to deal, in an indirect manner, in the business of the office which his master superintended (Cf. note to Table I). The first mention, however, that we find of Blaggrave's services in the office belongs to the year 1550. In a document preserved among the Loseley MSS., and not yet catalogued, Blaggrave himself says he has acted as Clerk in 4, 5, 6, and 7 Edward VI. This statement is confirmed by several other documents. In a ledger covering the expenses for the period beginning on the « vj^t of Iune in the iiijth yeare of the reigne of kinge Edward the vjth », and ending on the « xvth of Iune in the fyrste and seconde yeares of the most prosperus reignes of our drad souereigne lord and ladye Philipp and Marye » it is said that, for the said charges « Thomas Philipps and Thomas Blaggrave were by the order and discession of the seide Sir Thomas Cawerden Master of the seide offices credited and specially apoynted aswell with the recepte of all soche somes of mony as ffor and towards the paymente and satisfaccion of the same were by warraunte from the late king Edwarde the syxte and his counsell assygned and delyuered to them by the handes of the treasourours of his courtes of the augmentacions and wardes..... as by thacompptes of the seid Thomas Philipps and Thomas Blaggrave hereafter seuerallye in order foloinge &c..... ensueth » ; in one of the original accounts it is expressly mentioned that a sum of money « wes paid the xxvijth daye of December in the Syext year of the Rayegne of.... Edward the Syext by the hands of Sir Thomas Cawerden Knyeght in the presens of Rychard lee Thomas blackegrave clarkes Iohn hoellt Tayeller at the blacke fryars ». An examination of the accounts for that period shows, besides, that Blaggrave had to perform much of the practical business of the office. For instance, in 5 Edward VI, he spent xxxvijs. for the « cariage and delyuerie of stuff... and for his bote hier as well by nyght as by daye from the black ffryarse to grenewich & returning for knowledg of the counsaylles pleasure in and abowte thordinaunce & state » of the Lord of Misrule. Yet, from several entries, it is equally clear that Phillipps, and not Blagrave, was still the responsible officer. In 4, 5, 6, 7 Edward VI, for instance, I find that Phillipps « Clerk of the Revelles » received various sums, calculated at the usual rate of xvij pence a day, for his services at the time of the different Court festivities. In the same way, the inventory of 1555 is said to have been made by « Sir Thomas Cawerden knighte Master of that office and by Richard lee Clerke Comptrowler Thomas phillipps Clerke and Iohn Holte yeman of the same » ; but I find no mention of Blagrave's name, though he signed the copy of that inventory which was made in 1560. To sum up, my belief is that Blagrave had but a semi-official position in the Revels ; but, being Cawerden's personal servant, he must have been entrusted by his master with the supervision of pecuniary matters, and have been led in that way into helping Thomas Philipps who had also a share in the receipt and disbursement of the office money. At any rate, it is certain that Blagrave held in the household of the Master of the Revels a position of no mean importance ; Cawerden appointed him, « my late seruant » as he says, overseer of his will, and bequeathed to him « thre corselletes, sex Almen Ryfettes sex bowes twelve sheffe of Arrowes and sex blacke bylles two geldynges and a colte » (Loseley MSS. clxx). In December 1559, as overseer of Cawerden's will, he authorised Lady Cawerden and William More, executors of the same, to sell the Blackfriars estate to John Birch and others. On March 28, 1560, after the death of Philipps, he, at last, obtained a formal grant of the Office of Clerk of the Tents and Revels. By a privy seal, dated 19 December 1568, the Queen directed the Exchequer to « paye vnto... Thomas Blagrave Esquiour for the surplusage of his accompte made for ceartayne concealede goodes, Chattelles and Debtes of the Late Duke of Sommerset the some of one hunderethe nynetene poundes nyntene shillings and eight pence » (Harleian MSS. 146. f° 36). After Benger's death, he was a petitioner for the office of Master, as has been seen at page 17 of this volume. And at first his hopes seem to have been encouraged. In the beginning of December 1573, he had entered « into the execucon of the Masters office » (See page 191 l.20), and in the course of the year 1574, he obtained « svndry Letters from the Lorde Chamberlayne » which Blagrave appears to have considered as equivalent to a formal appointment (See page 225 l.4-5). But, of course, the Lord Chamberlain had no authority to grant the Mastership of the Revels, and this appointment was to be but temporary. In fact, the Officers of the Exchequer were not so sure of Blagrave's right to the title of Master as he himself was. In a Warrant dated 25 December 1574, Blagrave is styled « Clerke of thoffice of our Revels » (Record Office. Warrants for Issues. Parcel 120). In another Warrant dated 12 December 1575, he is this time called « Master of thoffice of our Revels » (Warrants for Issues. Parcel 120). But this is corrected in the next Warrant (5 August 1576), as well as in that of 24 December 1576, wherein he reappears as « Clerke of our sayd Revells » (Warrants for Issues. Parc. 120 & 121). In the Imprest Certificate Books, the same incertitude is remarkable : in most of them he is called « Clericus Revellorum ». In 1575 and 1576, however, he is styled « magister sive clericus Revellorum » (Record Office. Imprest Cert. Books. Pells. vol. 2. ff. 17 v. & 29 r.). In 1577, he is again denominated « Clericus Revellorum » (Imprest Cert. Books. Pells. vol. 2 f. 35 r.). In 1578, he is given as « Capitalis officarius Revellorum » (See page 280), which, no doubt, was the true function he exercised.

But if it is possible that Blagrave should have been able to show some letter from the Lord Chamberlain entrusting him with the indefinite functions of Chief Officer, it is an error to say with Collier (I. 229) and Mr E. K. Chambers (Tudor Revels, 52) that Blagrave received any appointment by privy seal. The foundation of this assertion is a misinterpretation of a Brief Declaration, preserved among the Lansdowne MSS. (27. N° 86), a duplicate of which is in the Record Office (Decl. Acc. Audit. Office. Bdle 2045. R. 5). The passage from which Collier and Mr E. K. Chambers conclude that Blagrave had been appointed by privy seal is as follows : « There hath bene receued out of the Receipte of Thexchequier by Thomas Blagrave then cheif Officer of the said Revelles by vertue of a previe Seale dated xxx^{mo} Decembris anno xxj^{mo} Regine predictæ aswell in full satisfaccion of the debtes due within the foresaid Office betwene the xxjth of ffebruarie 1576 & the xiiijth of ffebruarie 1577 ccxliij^{li} ix^s j^d ob. as also impreste towards the payinge & defrayinge her graces chardges & expences in the said Office in anno 1578 cc^{li}. In all as by Certificatt therof subscribed with thand of Roberte Petre may appeare.....ccccxliij^{li} ix^s j^d ob. ». Now, any one comparing this passage with similar ones in the two Declared Accounts printed in this volume (See Tables II & III) will see at a glance that the clause « then cheif Officer » is a mere parenthesis, and that the sense is « There has been received by vertue of a privy seal the sum of 244 pounds &c., which sum has been delivered into the hands of Thomas Blagrave, then chief officer ». Besides, this is proved by the Imprest Certificate I have printed at page 280, which makes it clear that the said privy seal was a Warrant for Issue.

On 24 July 1579, Tyllney, who had much influence at Court, was appointed Master, whilst poor Blagrave returned to the inferior situation of Clerk, and as we have seen (note to 17. 31), he did not accept his disappointment without some fits of sullenness. He was soon, however, to obtain substantial compensations from the Queen. On 5 January 1584, a lease was made by « the Comisioners... to Thomas Blagrave esq. of the personage of Longuey and of the Scite and hedhowse of the manour of Longuey in the Countie of Glocester for xxj yeres paiyng yerely xxl. vjs. viij^d. » (Signet Office. Docquets. Jan. 1584), a profitable bargain, no doubt, as all such transactions with the Crown were. In 1586 (10 November 28 Eliz.), he was granted the reversion of the Office of « Surveyor of the Workes aswell within the Tower of London as of hir Maiesties howses of accesse, &c. » (Patent Rolls. 28 Eliz. p. 3. m. 4). This was a lucky stroke, for Graves, as has already been said (note to 47. Document IV), died a few months after, so that Blagrave had not long to wait for the reversion. There exists in the Record Office among the Court of Requests Proceedings (Bdle 35. N° 15) a law-suit between Thomas Blagrave and Joan his wife, on the one part, and John Ketcher, on the other, about lands in South Minims, Middlesex. Blagrave must have had lands in Bedwin, too, for we learn from the Revels Accounts that he sometimes lived there (See pp. 266 l.35; 277 l.24; 297 l.30; 301 l.19). He died in 1603, since, on 30 May 1603, William Honings was appointed clerk « on the death of Thos. Blagrove » (State Papers. Dom. Add. vol. ix. N° 58).

70. 3. John Holte. See note to 5. 12.

26. John Bridges is contentid &c. In spite of Brewer's authority, Mr E. K. Chambers asserts (Tudor Revels, 11) that Bridges had resigned the post of Yeoman of the Revels by April 1, 1547. The terms of Holte's patent make it beyond doubt that the resignation did not take place before 1550, thus corroborating the facts supplied by Brewer. Holte had been acting all the time only as a deputy (Cf. note to 5. 12).

71. 20. Breui. I have extended the abbreviated word « bri » of the original into breui; but the scribe may have meant brue.

72. 1. John Arnolde. All we know concerning Arnolde, is that he died before 29 January 1573-4 (See page 73 l.30), having therefore occupied the post for two years only, and perhaps less.

14. Iustices. Sic for Iustes.

73. 1. Walter Fyshe. I ought to have printed Fysshe, which is the proper spelling of his name (See his signatures). Fysshe's patent has already been printed by Chalmers (Supplemental Apology, p. 149 e). The latter rightly gives Fysshe as the successor to Arnolde, who, he candidly says, « was the earliest keeper of such apparell, from what I have been able to trace ». As most of his predecessors, Fysshe was the Queen's tailor: in Add. MSS. Brit. Mus. 5751. ff. 73, 95, 300, mentions are found of « stuff delivered to Walter Fishe for the Queen's use ».

74. Kirkham's patent has been printed by Halliwell (Documents respecting the Office of Master of the Revels. p. 3-4). See note to 48. 2.

77 &c. From Christmas 1558 to 30 September 1559. This very interesting book of expenses contains mentions of several masques hitherto unknown to the historians of the drama. It has been extracted from the ledger preserved in the Loseley Collection and, for the present, catalogued as N° XIII. It follows the Accounts for Philip & Mary, beginning at f° 25r. and ending at f° 42v., f° 43 containing the « Summa Totalis » for the whole book; ff. 28r., 28v., 32r., 32v., & 36v. are blank.

This is the first time we have precise details on the Revels held during the first year of the reign of Queen Elizabeth. It is true that Collier (I. 169) had already referred to a document in the Lansdowne Collection, from which, he said, it appeared that « John Fortesque the Keeper of the Great Wardrobe, issued from thence in that year for the purpose of « setting forth the Revels », velvets, silks, cloth of gold &c. to the amount of 106l. 13s. 4d. ». But I am sorry to say that this is one of those « perversions of the truth » which are not uncommon in Collier. The heading of the MS. referred to (Lansdowne MSS. 5. N° 40 [1]) is as follows: « By a warraunte yeven at Westminster the xxiiijth Daye of October Anno primo Regine Eliz^a ffor Iohn ffortescue Esquire Mr of the qwenes Ma^{tes} great Warderobe, viz... ». Then follows an enumeration of stuffs with their prices, and amounting to the sum given by Collier. But the words « setting forth the revels » are of Collier's invention, and it is not doubtful that this document is a wardrobe one.

80. 24. In y^e hole. i. e. In the whole.

81. 1 & 3. Richarde Bosum; George Bosom. They probably belonged to the family of John Bossam « worthy to have been serjeant-painter to any king or emperor » (See Walpole's Anecdotes of Painting, p. 77, ed. 1871). A « Thomas boosome payenter » is mentioned as occupying a « howes in Watter lane » in a rent roll of Blackfriars, temp. Sir Thomas Cawerden (Loseley MSS. 244. N° 35).

5. Edmond Busshe. He may have been the same person as the « Busshe the goldesmythe » mentioned in the Privy Purse Expenses of the Princess Mary, p. 100 ; for, at that period, painting and working in gold were two crafts closely allied. For instance, Nicholas Hilliard was appointed in 41 Elizabeth « goldsmith and Lymner » to the Queen (See Patent Books. Pells. vol. 2).

20-1. In the Summa totalis « vij^s » is written over another sum, now indecipherable ; the scribe had also added « ix » ; he afterwards crossed this sum out and wrote « iij^d » instead.

92. 2. Peter Borrayne alias dorranger. He lived in Blackfriars, and his name appears several times on William More's lists of tenants, variously spelt Dorangia and Borangia (Loseley MSS. vol. 243).

105. 1. Auguste &c. Sir Thomas Cawerden died on August 29, 1559; part of the work in the last pages of the ledger was not, therefore, superintended by him. After his death, William More, the executor of the testament of the late Master of the Revels, « yelded for the said late M^r of the said offices of the tentes... and Revelles... an accompte before our Auditors of our prestes, aswell of all suche sommes of money as the same late Master receaved either of our treasour or of our late sisters treasour... as also the employment and issuyng out of the same in the said offices from the fyvetene day of Iune in the first and seconde yeres of the late kynge Philipp and our said sister vnto the feast of saint Michael tharchangell in the first yere of our reigne. Vpon whiche accompte it apperethe, that our said servant [i. e. More] remayneth in surplusage for money due to the said late master.... the somme of seaven hundred fourty poundes thirtene shillinges tenne pence and one half peny ». This sum was paid by a Warrant dated December 28, 1560, the same from which the preceding quotation has been made (Record Office. Exchequer of Receipt. Warrants for Issues. Parcel 114. See also my Collection of Payments, p. 419).

Another document preserved in the Record Office among the State Papers (Dom. Eliz. vol. iv. N^o 47) is an « Estymate of the deptes owing in the offices of the Revells and tentes dew from myhellmas in the second and third yeres of King Phillipp & Quene Mary the Accompt of bothe the same then Inclosid yeldyd vpp and Endyd vntill myhellmas last past before the date hereof amountith to ccxlvj^{li} and ffrom myhellmas last vntill mydsomer now comyng is and wilbe dew cccxxx^{li} x^s besides the ordynary fees paide to the patentees half yerely in the Receipt and in the exchequer — dclxxvj^{li} x^s

18. Robert Reyner. Of course, the name might be Reyner.

109. From Christmas 1559 &c. It is somewhat difficult to determine exactly the period covered by each of the books enumerated in this summing up. All I can make out is this :

1^o The « ffiveth booke » (amounting to 438*l.* 10*s.*) is evidently the same as the book mentioned at page 118 l.8, and belonging to « anno ix » i. e. Christmas 1566 and Shrovetide 1566-7.

2^o The « second booke » must have covered a period ending at Michaelmas 1561 (probably Christmas 1560 and Shrovetide 1560-1) for its 'summa totalis' corresponds to that given at page 113 as covering the expenses of « anno tertio », if we add the 200*l.* received in prest during the Michaelmas term of 1560 (See Collection of Payments, p. 419).

3^o If so, the « ffirste booke » must have related to the expenses for Christmas 1559 and Shrovetide 1559-60.

4^o Of « third » and « ffourthe » books we can only say that they must have covered the period Michaelmas 1561 — ? Michaelmas 1566.

5^o The Progress took place in 8 Elizabeth (See page 118 l.7).

29. And so Remayneth &c. This sum was paid by the Warrant printed at page 118.

33. xl^{li}. These forty pounds were paid in the Michaelmas term of 1566 (See Collection of Payments, p. 420) ; they must be added to the 843*l.* 11*s.* 2*d.* 1/4 of line 29 to make up the 883*l.* 11*s.* 2*d.* of the Warrant dated 25 June 1567 (See page 118 l.14, and Collection of Payments, p. 420).

110. Christmas 1559 &c. Of this document Collier says : « It is not signed by Sir Thomas Cawerden, but it bears internal evidence that it came from him » (I. 171). The fact is that Cawerden had been dead nearly a year when this estimate was drawn up. Mr E. K. Chambers has rightly assigned it to Bengier (Tudor Revels, 19-20).

111. 5. Survey the state of the... office. See p. 18, Document III & note to the same.

7. Fees of cast garmentes. Cf. pp. 25 l.42 ; 27 ll.11, 14, and 24.

13. Sir Rooland Hill. He was a mercer ; Lord Mayor in 1550 (See Dict. Nat. Biog. xxvi. 410).

14. Robotham. Probably the same person with the Robert Robotham who was Yeoman of the « Garderobe of Robes » to Edward VI (Patent Books. Auditors. vol. 9 & Patent Rolls. 13 Eliz. p. 6), and who is mentioned in Nichols's Progresses of Q. Elizabeth, I. 118.

112. 18. I have omitted here three lines and a half enumerating stuffs that were to be delivered to « Katerin Asteley, cheif gentilwoman of the privy chamber », for the Queen's use.

24. George Bredyman. He had been appointed Keeper of the Palace of Westminster by Mary (Lansdowne MSS. 156. f^o 96b.). He was also Keeper of the Wardrobe at Whitehall (See p. 313). He died before 14 May 1594, for in a privy seal of that date, granted to Edmund Bredyman, his son, he is said to be « defunctus » (Record Office. Privy Seals. May. 36 Eliz.). The same statement is again made in a privy seal of 12 January 1597-8 (Privy Seals. Jan. 40 Eliz.).

113. 1560 & 1561. Collier (I. 172-3) and Mr E. K. Chambers (Tudor Revels, 21) quote a so-called « Revels Book » (Lansdowne MSS. 5. N^o 1), including payments from April to September 1561, according to which the expenses of the office during the progress of 1561 alone amounted to the sum of 3209*l.* 10*s.* 8*d.* Now the fact that the expenses should have been so exorbitant is contradicted both by the document printed at page 109 and the one printed at page 113. I think that the book thus taken for one belonging to the office of the Revels, is simply a summary of expenses incurred in the Office of the Works ; with the Revels proper I feel pretty sure it has nothing to do. At any rate, Collier's assertion that the document « includes items for Court amusements » is totally unfounded.

10. Her highnes pryvie Seale. Cf. Collection of Payments, p. 419.

114. 27. I have omitted nine lines enumerating stuffs delivered for the Queen's use, and that of one of her gentlewomen.

30. John Fortescue. See Dict. of National Biography. xx. 45.

115. 12. The some of 677^{li} 9^s 11^d 1/2. Cf. Collection of Payments, p. 419.

20. Solutio &c. See Collection of Payments, p. 419.

116. This document has already been printed by Chalmers in his Apology for the Believers &c. p. 354-7; but he has made several mistakes, especially in the reading of the marginal notes which are in Cecil's well-known handwriting. For instance, he reads « Mons. Gonvi », instead of « Mos^r Gonnor », and « Edwd Hayedy », instead of « Edwardes tragedy ». Collier has analysed the document in his History of English Dram. Poetry, I. 182-3.

25. Mos^r Gonnor. i.e. Artus de Cossé, Seigneur de Gonnor, who, on February 10, 1563, had been appointed « surintendant des finances ». Interesting details on his visit to the Archbishop of Canterbury are to be found in Parker's Correspondence (Parker Society Pub.), pp. 212 & 214. On the occasion of this embassy a Warrant was made out on July 1, 1564, commanding the Treasurer « to paye or cause to be paid vnto our welbeloved Seruaunt Lewes Stocket Surveieur of our workes the Some of one hundreth Twenty three powndes xj^s vij^d to paye for the charges of suche workes as were made against the comminge hither and in the time of the beinge here of Mons^r Gonnort of late Ambassador owte of ffrance » (Record Office. Exchequer of Receipt. Warrants for Issues. Parc. 115).

35. Cristmas. According to the Acts of the Privy Council (New Ser. VII. 187), the players during the Christmas of 1564 were the Earl of Warwick's servants (2 plays) and the Children of Paul's. The latter played also on Candlemas day (Acts of the Privy Council. VII. 204).

36. Edwardes Tragedy. « Possibly his Damon & Pythias » (Collier, I. 183). This is very likely, as the play was licensed for the press in 1556 (though not printed before 1571). As to Richard Edwards's biography, see Dict. of National Biography. xvii. 125. It may be of use to know that a copy of his appointment to the Mastership of the Chapel Children is in the Patent Books (Auditors), vol. 9. Oct. 27, 3 Eliz., and that a commission in his name, authorizing him to take up « well singinge children » for his chapel, is among the Record Office Privy Seals (Dec. 4 Eliz.).

117. 1. Playes by the Gramar skolle of Westmynster. From a document in the Westminster archives we learn that the plays were « Heautontimoroumenos Terentii and Miles gloriosus Plauti », and that the plays were rehearsed « before Sir Thomas Benger » (Athenæum 1903, i.220).

6. Sir Percyvall Harte. He had been one of the Sewers of the Chamber to Henry VIII. In May 1531, « iijl. vjs. viijd. » were given by the King for « the Cristenyng of percyvall hartes Childe » (Nicolas, Privy Purse Expenses of Henry VIII, p. 136).

11. Before them &c. After the word « &c » is another word in a different handwriting, which seems to be « peram » (?) ; but the ink is very pale, and one cannot be sure.

27. The second endorsement is in Burghley's handwriting.

118. 1565-6 & 1566-7. This document is in a very bad state having been damaged by fire.

14. And t..... Add : « hree pounds eleven shillings ». Cf. page 118 l.6.

18. xxvth day of Iune. Add : « 1567 ». See Collection of Payments, Easter Term, 1567, p. 420.

23. Pattent. William Patten, the historian, who was also one of the Tellers of the Exchequer.

119. From 14 July 1567 &c. The original is in the Record Office (Warrants for Issues. Parcel 116). I have printed from a contemporary transcript preserved among the Harleian MSS. as more accessible. I have ascertained that the two documents contain no other differences but unimportant variations in the spelling.

13. Seven playes. The actors during the Christmas festivities were : the Children of Westminster, Lord Rich's (2 plays), & Paul's (2 plays) ; during the Shrovetide festivities : the Children of Windsor & the Children of the Chapel (See Mr E. K. Chambers's most interesting discoveries in Modern Language Review, Oct. 1906, p. 3).

14. Paynfull Plilgrimage. Can this be Everyman? Everyman's journey is several times compared to a hard pilgrimage in the course of the play, and the phrase « paynful pylgrymage » is even pronounced :

Go thou to euery man
And shewe hym in my name
A pylgrymage he must on hym take
Which he in no wyse may escape
ll. 66-9 (ed. Greg in Materialien)

Commaunded I am to go a iournaye
A longe waye harde and daungerous
ll. 242-3

a hye kynges chefe offycer
He bad me go a pylgrymage to my payne
ll. 330-1

So must you or thou scape that paynful pylgrymage
l. 565

And though this pylgrymage be neuer so stronge
l. 784

15. Witte and will. Of the Marriage of Wit & Science (lic. 1569-70) Mr Fleay says (Biog. Chron. II. 284) that « in his opinion » it is « the same as Wit & Will acted at Court 1567-8 » (Cf. p. 288 where he says that Wit and Will is « probably the Marriage of Wit and Science »). The identity of the two plays is most probable, for Wit and his companion Will are the two principal dramatis personæ in the play which has been transmitted to us.

16. Prodigallitie. Collier (I. 187) suggests that this « may possibly have been the original of The Contention between Liberality and Prodigality » printed 1602. Mr Fleay, on the other hand, asserts that it is « not Liberality and Prodigality of 1602 » (Biog. Chron. II. 288).

16. Orestes. A Newe Enterlude of Vice Conteyninge the Historye of Horestes with the cruell reuengment of his Fathers death, vpon his one naturill [sic] Mother was printed in 1567. Mr Fleay says it must « surely have been the same play as the Orestes played at Court ». But I quite agree with Collier (II. 412), who thinks that such a crude production could « never have been performed before any audience but one of the lowest description ».

17. The kinge of Scottes. Mrs C. C. Stopes says in The Athenæum, 1900, i. 410 : « This early tragedy may have been based on the death of Darnley in 1566 ; but it is more likely to have been the story of some earlier king, perhaps even the first rendering of the death of Duncan and the succession of Macbeth ». It is difficult to say ; it might also have been based upon a romantic story such as that of Juan de Flores's « History of Aurelio and of Isabel daughter of the king of Scots » a translation of which, printed at Antwerp, had been circulated in England since 1556 (Cf. also St. Reg. Aug. 8. 1586, and 20 Nov. 1588).

18. Gobbyns. Collier prints « Dobbyns » (I. 188) ; but there can be no doubt that the first letter is a « G ». I have read « Gobbyns », but of course it might be « Gobbyus ».

32. Kerry. The original Warrant has : « Th Kery ».

120. From 19 February &c. I have a pretty strong suspicion that this Liber belongs to the Office of the Works, and not to the Revels. I print it all the same, as it affords an idea of the tremendous work that was sometimes necessary to prepare the Queen's Revels. Besides, if this is really a book of the Works, it is interesting to know in what way this office collaborated with the Revels.

14. Dore. The margin of the original has been cut off by the binder, and this word being at the end of the line, it is impossible to see now whether it was singular or plural.

15. John Colbrande. Probably not the same as the John Colebrande who was appointed «Master Carpenter» on 8 February 7 Eliz. (Patent Books. Auditors. vol. 9. Cf. also page 47 l.6).
17. Nightes. In the original this word is always written with the old letter ȝ, which I have represented by a «gh» italics.
122. 8. Nicholas Lyzarde. He was serjeant-painter to Elizabeth, and had also been in the service of Henry VIII and Edward. In 1556 he had been granted «officium servientis Pictoris» with the fee of ten pounds per annum (Patent Rolls. 2 & 3 Ph. & Mary). He died in 1570. There existed several other Lizards who were painters (See for instance, page 134); they probably belonged to the same family.
123. 13. Storeyard in Scotlande. i. e. the old House where the Kings of Scotland were formerly received when they came up to London (Stowe, Survey, edit. Thoms, p. 168). In Queen Elizabeth's time it was used as a storeyard for the Office of the Works (See Imprest Certificate Books. Pells. Vol. II. f^o 88 v.).
124. Christmas 1568 &c. A duplicate of this document is among the Warrants for Issues (Parcel 117). See my note to 119.
125. Christmas 1569 &c. A duplicate of this document is among the Warrants for Issues, Parcel 117 (wrongly classed among the Warrants for Issues belonging to the year xiii^o Eliz.), and another is in Lansdowne MSS. (12. N^o 55). The latter bears the following note: «This warrant was subscribed by the late L. Tresorer of England before it cam to her Ma^{tes} signature as apperith by the same, passid at the signet». Cf. also Egerton MSS. 2723. f^o 15b., and State Papers. Dom. Add. vol. xviii. N^o 13.
126. From Shrovetide 1569-70 &c. A duplicate of this document is among the Warrants for Issues (Parcel 117). I have printed from the Imprest Certificate Books as more accessible.
127. Revels N^o 1. This book consists of sixteen folio leaves 11 2/8 × 17 inches; f^o 1r. & v., f^o 3v., f^o 10v., f^o 13r. & v., f^o 14r. & v., f^o 15r. & v., f^o 16r. & v., are blank.
129. 20. Repayrng. Sic for Repayring.
130. 5. John Drawater. He was Blagrave's servant (See note to 285).
27. William Bowll. Cf. page 131 l.1 and 139 l.1. When Holte died, Bowll petitioned for the office of Yeoman — and not for the Mastership as Collier has it, I. 230 n.—, as may be seen at page 408. From the same petition, we learn that Bowll had «longe tyme served as Deputie for the saide Iohn Holte». On 27 June 1582, he was appointed Groom of the Tents and Pavilions, succeeding John Browne «defunctus» (Patent Books. Auditors. vol. 10). This office he surrendered in February 1593 to his son Robert (Signet Office. Docquets. Feb. 1593). He was also «one of thordonary yeomen» of the Queen's Chamber (See page 416 l.6 & Privy Seals. Jan. 40 Eliz.). From several entries in the Issue Books (Pells), I infer that Bowll died in the beginning of 1598.
133. 11. Walter Cock. The MS. has «W^r cock». I have extended into «Walter cock»; but I am conscious that the scribe may have meant «Worcock» or something like.
26. Fugall. One Thomas Fugal was chaplain to and executor of the will of Sir Thomas Benger.
134. 14 & 17. Nicholas Sutton; Romyn. In these two names the letter «n» is surmounted by a small ornament which may be a sign of abbreviation. As at page 231 l.22, the name Sutton occurs again but without any sign, I have taken no notice of the ornament.

137. 15. John Browne. He may have been the same person with the John Browne mentioned at page 167 l.22, who himself was probably the Groom of the Tents (Cf. note to 130. 27). But, of course, in a case of John Brown, it is difficult to be affirmative.

138. 20. Oving. Probably a mistake for wooving (See Glossarial Index).

141. 14. Thoms. Sic for Thomas.

142. 18. Bryan Dodmer. At page 413 l.9 he is given as Blgrave's servant (Cf. note to 413.9). He is mentioned in Sir Thomas Cawerden's will : « Also I gyue and bequeth vnto Bryan Dodmer last sonne vnto Thomas Dodmer gentylman one Annuite or yerly rente of twenty marckes by the yere » (Loseley MSS. clxx). He probably died before 1580, for in that year his name no longer stands on the list of Cawerden's legatees to whom William More paid annuities (See Loseley MSS. vol. ccxliii).

145. 3. Effigia. « Translation from Euripides » (Fleay. Biog. Chron. II. 287). I know not on what fact this statement is based.

7. Narcisses. The scribe has used the abbreviation sign for « es » or « is ». Hence my reading « Narcisses » ; but he may have meant « Narcissus ». « A play with this name is mentioned by Heywood in his Apologie : « Art thou proud our scene presents thee with the fall of Phaeton ; Narcissus pining in the love of his shadow, &c » (Cunningham).

11. Paris and vienna. « The History of the noble and ryght valyaunt & worthy knyght Parys. and of the fayr Vyene the daulphyns doughter of vyennoys, the whyche suffred many aduersytees by cause of their true love or they coude enioye the effect therof of eche other, In the tyme of kynge Charles of Fraunce, the yere of our Lorde MCCLXXI » is one of the translations from the French published by Caxton, and probably was the source of the play. The romance was reprinted in 1869, in the Roxburghe Library, ed. W. C. Hazlitt.

11-12. For these six plays, cf. the payments recorded in the Acts of the Privy Council (VIII. 61-2 & 71), and the Declared Accounts of the Treasurer of the Chamber in the Modern Language Review, Oct. 1906, p. 4.

148. 15. Summa Totalis &c. The xxvj^{li} iij^s ij^d added to the MDlvij^{li} xvij^s v^d ob of page 144 make the sum of 1585^{li} 7^d paid by the Warrant of 7 June 1573 (See Collection of Payments, page 420, & page 152 l.16). I had left London when I saw that Mr E. K. Chambers notices that Collier (I. 197) gives the total cost of the Revels for this period as 3905^{li} 0^s 7^d, instead of 1585^{li} 0^s 7^d (Tudor Revels, 23). I was very much surprised, for two years ago, when I examined the document quoted by Collier in support of this statement, which is a Brief Declaration preserved among the Lansdowne MSS. (9. N^o 57), I did not notice any such difference. And, indeed, Dr Furnivall, who has been kind enough to examine the document for me, writes that the total is m^cviii^{xx}ij^{vi}.vij^d ; so that the discrepancy pointed out by Mr E. K. Chambers is only due to Collier's carelessness. Mr E. K. Chambers's supposition that « perhaps this includes expenses charged to the Wardrobe » is inadmissible ; for the Wardrobe expenses, amounting to 3066^{li}. 4^s. 10^d 1/4, were paid that year by another Warrant, dated 11 July 1573 (See Books of Payments by Royal Warrant. vol. 10. f^o 9 r.).

22. Signatures. It is noticeable that Sir Thomas Benger has not signed this book; but we should not find therein « evidence of some disorganization in the Revels at this time » (Chambers. Tudor Revels, 25). I have already said that in June 1572, Benger, « sick in body », was making his will, and this is, I suppose, a sufficient reason to explain why he could not sign the books of the Revels. But, moreover, this is the only complete Revels Book we possess relating to Benger's time, and it may have been Benger's habit never to sign the books as it had been his predecessor's. In all the mass of the Loscley MSS., so far as I can remember, I have found Cawerden's signature but once or twice. Shall we say that Cawerden was an unbusinesslike Master?

To have done with that question of an imaginary disorganization in the Office, it is necessary to refute another of Mr E. K. Chambers's arguments. The author of the Tudor Revels observes that a sum of 50 pounds was paid on May 4, 1572, to Lewes Stocket, Surveyor of the Works, for what he had done towards the plays of the previous Christmas; that an imprest of 200 pounds was made to him on the occasion of Montmorency's visit to London. And though Mr E. K. Chambers admits that « these payments may of course be explained as relating to expenses normally incurred in the departments of the officers themselves in connection with the festivities », he goes on to say that « they are not observed in other years, and leave a suspicion that certain deficiencies in the Master of the Revels were being supplied by the energy of his colleagues » (Tudor Revels, 25-6). Now this is not exact. Similar payments exist for several years before and after Benger's death; e. g. in 1563-6 (Warrants for Issues. Parcel 116); in 1567-70 (Audit Office. Declared Accounts. Bd. 2411. N° 2); in 1575-6 (Imprest Certificate Books. Pells. vol. 2. f° 28 v.). I have already quoted (note to 116. 25) a payment to Lewes Stocket for « charges made against the comminge of Mons^r Gonnort ». Another extract from one of the documents last mentioned will make it clear that it was part of the task of the Works to help the Revels in the preparation of the Court festivities. The Declared Account for 1567-70 mentions the « newe making and setting vp of Scaffoldes, particions and dores and other necessaries for the Maundayes, Playes, Tragedyes, Maskes, Revelles, and Tryvmphes at diuers and sondry tymes ».

149. Revels N° 2. This book consists of nineteen folio leaves besides two others forming the cover. The folios were numbered, but some of the numbers have disappeared most of the corners being worn off; 5, 7, 8, 9, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16 are still visible. The two leaves of the cover were unnumbered; f° 1 v., f° 6 v., f° 12 v., f° 19 v., are blank.

151. 6. The Wardrobe stuf. The Brief Declaration for that year has: « besides certen parcelles of silke and other stuff receyued out of the greate Wardrobe estimated to the Some of vij ^{xx}iiij^{li} » (Declared Accounts. Audit Office. Bdle 2045. R. 1).

152. The original from which this Certificate was copied is preserved in the Record Office (Imprest Certificate Books. Pells. vol. 1. f° 42 v.).

7. Magno. Sic for magne.

11. ccc^{li}. These three hundred pounds, received by Fortescue, were never accounted for satisfactorily; for in another Imprest Certificate (Imprest Certificate Books. Pells. vol. 2. f° 17 v),

I find the following hopeless remark made by one of the Auditors : « And whether the saide Mr Fortescue haue accompted for the saide somes or noe I knowe not ».

12. Per breve. The Warrant here alluded to is to be found among the Warrants for Issues (Parcel 118).

19. A Privay Seale dated &c. The greater part of this Warrant has been quoted in my note to 6. 23.

153. 7. Duke Mommerancie Ambassador. « About the 9. of Iune, Francis duke of Memorencie chiefe « Marshall of France gouvernor and lieutenant of the Isle of France, generall vnto Charles the « ninth king of Fraunce, and Paul de Foix of the priuie counsell to the sayde king, and Bertrande « de Saligners, lord de la Mothefenalon, knights of the order of Saynt Michael, ambassadors « for the same king, arryued at Douer, and were brought to London.

« The 15. day being sunday, the said ambassadors repaired to the White hall, where they « were honorably receiued of the Queenes maiestie, with her nobilitie, and there in her graces « chappell, about one of the clocke in the afternoone, the articles of treatie, league, or confedera- « cie & sure friendship (concluded at Blois the 19. of Aprill) as is aforeshewed, betwixt the « Queenes maiestie, and the French King, being read, the same was by her maiestie and his « ambassadors confirmed, to be obserued and kept, without innouation or violation, &c. The rest of « that day with great part of the night following was spent in great triumph, with sumptuous ban- « quets.... The twentie-eyght day of Iune, the aforementioned Ambassadors departed from London « towards France » (Stowe, Chron., p. 672, ed. 1615). From the Warrant for Issue dated 17 June 1572, we learn the very interesting fact (hitherto unknown, I believe) that these festivities were superintended by Sussex and Leicester : the three hundred pounds directed to be paid to John Fortescue « for dyvers thinges to be provided and done aswell within the office of our said great Warderobe, as also in the office of our Revells » were to be « bestowed according to suche direction as shalbe therein gevin by our cosyns the Erle of Sussex and the Erle of Leycester, or either of them » (Warrants for Issues. Parcel 118).

10. Warderobe stuf. See note to 151. 6.

154. 2-5. In the right margin, the original has the following note, written by one of the Auditors : « Probantur particule summarum sequencium ».

157. 6. A Castell for Lady Peace. We may form an idea of what the masque must have been, from the description of the Devices which were to be shown on a similar occasion before Queen Elizabeth and Mary Queen of Scots (Lansdowne MSS. 5. N° 38, printed in Collier, I. 178). Several of the personages and properties were the same in both masques : Lady Peace, Discord, Argus ; a waggon, castle of peace, collar for Discord &c.

158. 12. Upholster. Under this word, the Auditor has written : « Nota pro content. ».

22. Thomas Greene the Cofer maker. Evidently the same with the Thomas Grene mentioned in Nichols's Progresses of Q. Elizabeth, I. 271, and whom Madden supposes (Privy Purse Expenses of the Pr. Mary, p. 235) to have been the son of John Grene, of London, coffer-maker, several times mentioned in the aforesaid expenses. Another William Grene was coffer-maker to Henry VIII (Nicolas, Privy Purse Expenses of H. VIII, p. 311).

159. 10. Allphonse. Probably Alfonso Ferrabosco, an Italian musician, who received a pension of one hundred pounds in 1567 (Patent Books. Auditors. vol. 9).
160. 9. Petrucio. « That is, I presume, Petruccio Ubaldino, a Florentine, who was in the receipt of a yearly fee from Queen Elizabeth of forty marks, as I learn from the accounts of the Treasurer of the Chamber » (Cunningham). He was an illuminator on vellum and a scholar. See Dict. of Nat. Biogr. lviii. 1 ; cf. also page 301 l.10 of this volume.
22. In the left margin, the Auditor has written : « Nota pro [?] Row ».
162. 2. Black ffryars brydge. An account of the charges « towards the ereccion and buyldynge.... of twoo bridges thone at the blackfreers and thother at the Temple » (18 June 4 Edward VI), is in the Record Office, among the Declared Accounts (Pipe Office. R. 3328).
163. 19. In the left margin, the Auditor has written : « nota pro billa uide ».
20. In the left margin, the Auditor has added : « Bothier & Rewardes ».
165. 1. William Hunnys. « This is not the poet, I believe, but another William Hunnys, who was supervizor and Keper of the greate gardens and orchardes at Greenwich » (Cunningham). But, indeed, the poet and the Keeper of the gardens were one and the same person : the terms of the patent appointing Hunnys to the latter post make it clear beyond all doubt (Patent Books. Auditors. vol. 9. 20 June 4 Eliz.).
13. Skotland. See note to 123. 13.
23. Saint Iones. Cunningham has read « Saint James » ; of course, there can be no doubt about the word.
172. 17. Clement. (Sic). Cf. page 195 l.12 ; 215 l.9 & 231 l.21.
173. 17. Yomen. (Sic).
174. 15. Children of Eaten. According to the Declared Accounts of the Treasurer of the Chamber, the Children of Eton played on Twelfth day. The payee on that occasion was William Elderton (See Modern Lang. Review, Oct. 1906, p. 5).
20. Fardngales. Sic for fardingales.
22. Munkesters playe. Richard Munkester or Mulcaster was Master of the Merchant Taylors' School. His Children acted on Shrove Tuesday (Mod. Lang. Review, Oct. 1906, p. 5).
24. Children of Wynsor. They acted on New Year's day (Mod. Lang. Review, Oct. 1906, p. 5).
175. 4. Cariclia. Theagenes is mentioned at line 13. The play was probably drawn from Heliodorus.
5. The Duttons playe. From the Declared Accounts of the Treasurer of the Chamber (Mod. Lang. Review, Oct. 1906, p. 5), it appears that in that year (1572), Lawrence Dutton was in the Earl of Lincoln's company. In the preceding year, « Laurence Dutton and his felowes » were « servauntes to Sir Robert Lane » (Acts of the Privy Council. N. S. VIII. 61).
30. Maske of Ianvs. Was this the masque shown on New Year's day (See page 180 l.29) ?
34. Arnolde the paynter. Walpole, quoting Meres, gives a list of famous English artists amongst whom is Arnolde (Anecdotes of Painting, p. 102, ed. 1871).
35. Picture of Andromadas. I think it would be a somewhat hasty inference to suppose that a play on the subject of Perseus and Andromeda was performed in that year. This picture of Andromeda may have been a mere stage property, or may as well have been used for ornamental purposes. Besides, it should not be forgotten that a Perseus and Andromeda was played in the ensuing year, and that it is not likely that the Master should have accepted plays on the same subject in two consecutive years, one of the aims of the Revels being certainly to secure as much variety as possible (See page 14 ll.34-6).

176. 2. Duttons play. See note to 175. 5.

4. Playe of fortune. Mr Fleay suggests (Biographical Chronicle, II. 289) that this is « the Play of Fortune to know each one their conditions, &c., entered S. R. 1566-7, revived ». It may be.

177. 7. Fyssshers. The scribe had written first « Marryners »; he then crossed out the word, and interlineated « ffyssshers ».

23. Iohn Owgle. The scribe had written « William Owgle »; « William » was afterwards altered to « Iohn ».

178. 2. The Auditor wrote in the left margin « nota pro quantitate », and, afterwards, crossed out these words.

6. The Auditor has written in the left margin : « nota ut supra ».

8. The Auditor has written in the left margin : « nota pro quantitate ».

12. The Auditor has written in the left margin : « nota ut supra ».

14. xxij^d ob. After this sum, the MS. has : « Buttons & Tassells at ij^s the oz. — lxxv^s vj^d » which line has been crossed out.

18. A greate hanging lock with a keye to it. This must have been a property — it was supplied by the silk-weaver — with some emblematical meaning, such as the lock described in the « Devices » to be exhibited before Mary Queen of Scots : « Prudentia shall delyver a locke whereuppon shalbe wrytten In Eternum. Then Temperantia shall likewise delyver unto Argus a key whose name shalbe Nunquam, signifyinge that when False Report and Discorde are committed to the pryson of Extreme Oblyvion, and locked there everlastinglie, he should put in the key to lett them out Nunquam » (Collier. I. 179). It may have been used in the Masque of Janus (Cf. page 175 l.12).

21. Wylliam Lysarde. This name has been written over another, the last letters of which were « arne ». The other letters are not legible.

27. Assedew. Cunningham, mistaking the long « s » for an « f », has printed « A Fedew ».

179. 24. The Auditor has written in the left margin : « nota pro quantitate ».

33. This line has been added in different ink.

180. 4. Farrantes playe. Farrant was Master of the Children of Windsor (Cf. note to 174. 24).

15. The second play of my Lord of Leicesters men. According to the payments of the Treasurer of the Chamber (Mod. Lang. Review, Oct. 1906, p. 5), Leicester's men acted three plays during the Christmas festivities.

39. Eldertons playe. i. e. the play acted by the Children of Eton (Cf. note to 174. 15).

182. 1. Progresse into Kent. See Holinshed, iii. 1493. col. 2.

184. 3. A nother. Sic for Another.

185. 9. Saving.? Sawing.

186. 1. New presses. Cf. page 411 l.5. The presses remained long in that decayed state; for in 1575, 1578, 1579, 1580, the Clerk still complains of the want of convenient presses (See pp. 254 l.9; 285 l.10; 312 l.8; 329 l.13). In 1581-2, cvijij^s vjd^d were spent in reparations of the Office (See Table II. l. 67), and in April 1581, the allusion to the presses disappears from the Books, never to occur again (See page 341), from which fact we may infer that the presses had at last been mended. (Cf. also a Warrant for payment to the Officers of the Works, dated 29 May 22 Eliz. in Warrants for Issues, Parcel 122).

9. Not allowid &c. Two copies of the Declared Account for that year are preserved in the Record Office (Audit Office. Bdle 2045. R. I & II). In both the fifty pounds have been deducted from the « Summa totalis ».

10. Said presseis. Cunningham has printed « same »; but there can be no doubt about the « said ».

187. I have extracted from this document only what concerns the Revels. Another document enumerating the same quantities of stuffs, with their prices, is among the Lansdowne MSS. 9 (N^o 59). It is endorsed : « Touching Sr Thomas Benger K: late m^r of the maskes, Revelles, & Tryvmphes of certen Stuffe Receaved owte of the greate warderobe. — A declaracion of Stuffe delyuerd furth of the great warderobe vnto Sr Thomas Benger knight for thofice of Revelles ».

This document Collier has hopelessly misdescribed. He says (I. 198) that it is written « in the French language », whilst it is in Latin. He styles Sir Thomas Benger « Maitre de lez Maskes, Revelles et Triumphes » whilst the MS. has : « Magistro de lez Maskes &c ». He gives the value of the stuffs as amounting to 3757*l.* 8*s*, whilst the total is 1757*l.* 8*s.* 1 1/2. Besides, he says the account « is dated 12th July 1572 »; but this date is that of the Warrant, and not that of the document which was evidently a certificate made after Benger's death (See the « late master » of the endorsement), probably on the occasion of the Inventory which was taken when Blagrave entered « into the execucon of the Masters office ». Mr. E. K. Chambers, who in the last three points follows Collier, adds (Tudor Revels, p. 26) that the stuffs were furnished by Fortescue « presumably in part for the reception of Montmorency and in part for the revels of the previous Christmas ». This is impossible, since the Warrant uses the words « We will and commaunde that Immediatlíe vppon the sighte herof ye deliuer &c. », which words could hardly have applied to stuffs employed at least one month earlier.

189. Revels N^o 3. This book at first consisted of 22 folio leaves; it now wants ff. 1, 2 and 3; the second of the folios left is numbered 5 and the last 22. The pagination of ff. 7, 8, 13, 15 has disappeared. The book has suffered from damp, and ff. 4, 21 and 22 are loose; f^o 5*v.*, f^o 6*r.* & v., f^o 8*v.*, f^o 13*v.*, f^o 17*v.* & f^o 18*v.* are blank. One of the missing pages must have been the title-page.

191. Cunningham prints here a whole page which does not now exist in the Book. I do not think that we should suspect Cunningham's honesty : the book is in a very bad state, and a folio or more may very well have disappeared since the publication of his Extracts from the Accounts of the Revels. Besides, all the facts stated in the said page are supported by other passages in the book (see, for instance, in my Collection of Payments, the privy seal mentioned at the end of the passage), and none of them is interesting enough to have tempted a man into a forgery. I give the page as it is printed in Cunningham :

14. Inventory. This inventory I have tried — but in vain — to discover.
19. The entraunce of the saide Blagrave into the execucon of the Masters office. See note to 68..1
193. 12. Predor:. In the MS. the name Predor is followed by a colon; but as it was difficult to decide what was the value given to this sign of abbreviation, I have thought it best to let the sign stand. Perhaps the scribe meant « Predorus ».
15. Alkmeon. « Euripides restored » (Fleay, Biog. Chronicle, II. 287); — a somewhat bold assertion.
17. Mamillia. Was this a play on the same subject as Greene's novel?
25. Quintus ffabius. Cunningham prints « Quint ffabi »; the sign of abbreviation for « us » is perfectly visible.
195. 16. Iohn Streter. He may have been the father or the grandfather of the Robert Streater who was appointed serjeant-painter at the Restoration, and who was, as we know, the son of a painter. See Walpole, Anecdotes of Painting, p. 221, ed. 1871.
196. 9. Brokson. In the MS., this name is interlineated.
199. 5. Mask of Wyldemen. These probably were the torchbearers to the Masque of Foresters. Cf. the « attyred in Mosse & Ivye » of page 193 l.34.
29. Ottett. Can this be a mistake for « marquesotted » (cf. page 218 l.28)?
201. 1. Disbrced. Sic for disburced.
202. 1. Pecelles. Sic for Percelles.
203. 24. Foormes ij & stooles. Probably for the « senat howse » mentioned at line 12.
204. 18. By the speciall appointment of Mr Iohn Forteskue. [This entry seems to imply that, though Blagrave had entered « into the execucon of the Masters office », Fortescue still had the oversight of the Office as in the preceding year.
22. Suyng owte the privie seale. The Warrant is dated 23 December 1573 (See Collection of Payments, page 420).
206. 5. Munkesters Children. i. e. the Merchant Taylors'.
21. Moorecroft. (Sic). But this is a mistake for Moorecrost. Cf. page 214 l.12 & 230 l.21.
211. 18. Chages. Sic for Charges.
213. 13. Percius & Anthomiris. Malone conjectured that « Anthomiris » was a blunder of the man who made out the accounts for « Andromeda ». This is most probable.

16. Torchebearers. The scribe had written first « Hawncee » ; he afterwards crossed the word out, and wrote over it « Torchebearers ».
216. 15. A Whissell. No doubt for the ship-master in the masque of Warriors (cf. page 213 l.15).
223. Revels No 4. This book consists of sixteen folio leaves, unnumbered ; f^o 1r. & v., f^o 4v., f^o 14v., f^o 15r. & v. and f^o 16r. are blank.
225. 4. Blagrave esquier being appoynted Master of the same. See note to 68. 1 & cf. page 191 l.20.
12. Progresse to Reading. The Queen was at Reading in July 1574. Cf. page 227 l.35.
29. In the right margin, the Auditor has written : « kno the begynninge & thendinge of the said dayes ».
227. 6. Mistris Dane &c. Cf. page 221 l.11.
37. Sheperdes hookes &c. These « sheperdes hookes », together with the « Lamskynnes for Shepperds, Horstayles for the wylde mannes garment, arrowes for Nymphes, shepperdes staves, garlandes, a syth for Saturn », evidently were properties provided for a pastoral (either a masque or a play). This is very important, especially if we remember that Tasso's Aminta was performed at Ferrara on July 31, 1573, and that the pastoral before the Queen was shown by Italian players.
228. 23. In the left margin, the Auditor has written : « The quantitie to be expressed ».
27. In the left margin, the Auditor has written : « to expresse the cause ».
31. In the left margin, the Auditor has written : « ut supra ».
34. Italian prayers. Sic for Italian players.
230. 30. For clatterbooke. These words are interlineated in the MS.
236. 3. The Auditor has written in the right margin : « nota pro quantitate ».
7. Orengeculler. (Sic).
9 & 13. The Auditor has written in the right margin : « ut supra ».
25. The horses. i. e. the hobby horses mentioned at page 237 l.24.
29. In the right margin, the Auditor has written : « kno whither and for what purpose ».
31. In the right margin, the Auditor has written : « nota ut supra ».
32. In the right margin, the Auditor has written : « to whome ».
33. In the right margin, the Auditor has written : « to expresse the quantite ».
238. 7. Farrantes playe. According to the Accounts of the Treasurer of the Chamber (in Cunningham, xxxi), the Children of Windsor performed on Twelfth Night.
11. Lord Chamberlayne. Thomas Radcliffe, Earl of Sussex, became Lord Chamberlain in July 1572.
12. Mr Knevett. Thomas Knyvet has been made famous by his quarrel with the Earl of Oxford. He was a Gentleman of the Privy Chamber, and became later on Keeper of the Store of Westminster Palace (Declared Accounts. Audit Office. Bdle 2045. R. 6), and also of the Store at Whitehall (See Table II. l.97).
21. The History of Phedrastus & Phigon and Lucia together &c. Collier (I. 226) thinks that the Chamberlain's servants performed two plays : The History of Phedrastus and Phigon and Lucia. Mr Fleay, if I understand him rightly, sees three plays in the same (Biog. Chron. II. 290). But it seems to me that this may just as well be the title of one single play. For the meaning of the sentence is, not that two or three plays were shown together, but that « the charges and expenses together amounteth... », a phrase often met with in the accounts, and synonymous with « in all amounteth ».

Of the so-called play Phigon & Lucia, Collier says : « This is most likely the same piece that in the Account of the Revels of the preceding year, we have seen named P[r]edor and Lucia : perhaps neither was the correct title ». It is much more probable that the two plays were different ; for if Phigon and Lucia had been played in the preceding year it certainly would not have been submitted again to perusal.

The Books of the Treasurer of the Chamber contain no payment to the Chamberlain's company ; possibly they did not perform before the Queen, for we should not forget that the mention in the Accounts concerns a rehearsal and not a performance.

28. Leicesters menne. The Books of the Treasurer of the Chamber contain two payments to the Earl of Leicester's players, for two plays performed on St Stephen's day and New Year's day (Cunningham, xxx).

42-7. Lord Clyntons players. From the Books of the Treasurer of the Chamber we gather that Lord Clinton's players performed on St John's day and on the Sunday being the second of January (Cunningham, xxx). One of their three plays must therefore have been refused.

44. Pretestus. This word has been added in a slightly different handwriting ; the ink is the same.

46. The. Sic for they, i. e. Lord Clinton's players.

239. 3. My Lord of Lesters boyes. To be distinguished from « My Lord of Leicester's men ». In the Books of the Treasurer of the Chamber, both companies are called « Leicesters players » (See note to 238. 28).

20. In the right margin, the Auditor has written : « antea ut supputatum ».

25. Leycesters mennes playe. From the date of this entry, it is clear that Leicester's men played on January 1 ; therefore the boys played on St Stephen's day (See note to 238. 28).

29. Vlrick Netsley. « In consideration of the great knowledge and skill which we have founde to be in our welbeloved Subiectes Vlrick Nestley and Rowlande Behyne straungers borne in the Cunninge makinge of certen new devised Ordinaunce of Iron &c., we doe geve and graunte a certen Pention of three shillings by the daye » (Patent Books. Auditors. vol. 10. 8 Aug. 29 Eliz.).

241. 26. Sabastian. i. e. Sebastian Westcott, Master of the Children of Paul's. From the Accounts of the Treasurer of the Chamber, it appears that they played on Candlemas day (Cunningham, xxxi).

From the following passage in Spenser, we may form an idea of what Vanity's dress must have been like :

The first was Fansy, like a lovely Boy
Of rare aspect, and beauty without peare ;
.....
His garment nether was of silke nor say,
But paynted plumes in goodly order dight,
Like as the sunburnt Indians do aray
Their tawney bodies in their proudest plight :
As those same plumes so seemd he vaine and light.

Masque of Cupid. F. Q. III. C. 12.

34. Mr Hunyes his playe. The Books of the Treasurer of the Chamber contain a payment to « Hunys Master of the Children of her Maiesties Chapple for a playe upon Shrovesondaye » (Cunningham, xxxi).

242. 18. In the left margin, the Auditor has written : « to know the parties name ».

244. 11. The Duttons. We have seen (note to 175. 5) that at Christmas 1572, the Duttons were in Edward Clinton, Earl of Lincoln's company. In December 1575, they had passed into the service of the Earl of Warwick (Mod. Lang. Review, Oct. 1906, p. 5). But when they played in the Christmas of 1574, they must needs have been still among the Lord Clinton's servants, for in that year the Earl of Warwick's played only during the ensuing Shrovetide (Cunningham, xxx-i).

20. The playe on Twelfe Nighte. i. e. the play by the Children of Windsor. Cf. p. 238 l. 7 and note.

35. Hornes... Collers... Leashes... dogghookes. These properties must have been used in a hunting scene. Cf. a similar scene in Narcissus, played also by the Children of the Chapel (p. 141 l. 17).

246. 8. Mirrors. Cf. p. 238 l. 34.

247. 16. Dodmer.... petition. Cf. p. 413 l. 6, and note to 412. 1.

24. Coserving. Sic for Conserving.

29. Srovetyde. Sic for Shrovetyde.

248. Under the «Summa Totalis», the Auditor has written the following note : «Memorandum the marcens percelles was mystakyn in the nombre of Elles for xxx was entred for xxxix wheorpon the booke was corrected and afterwarde the Bill was shewed wherin it appered it should haue bene xxxix and so reduced as it was at the first ». This explains several corrections made in the total sum. The clerk wrote first ccclxviii^{li} iij^s x^d for the Emptions, which sum was afterwards crossed out, and ccclxv^{li} xviii^s x^d substituted : this latter sum was in its turn scored through, and the first written again. It was the same with the general total, which was first corrected into Dclxvi^{li} xviii^s iiiij^d, then this sum was crossed out, and the word « stet » written over the first sum.

250. 5. William Dodington. The Letters Patent appointing him Auditor of the Imprest are transcribed in the Patent Books (Auditors), vol. 9. 28 March 12 Eliz.

251. Revels N° 5. This book consists of 14 folio leaves, besides a title-page. The back of the title page is blank and so are f° 13v. & f° 14r.

255. 9. Buggin. Note here and at some of the following pages that Buggyn signs his name with an « i » instead of a « y ».

256. 15. Toolie. Query a play on Tully, something like Greene's novel, Ciceronis Amor ?

17. The historie of the Collyer. The hero of this play may have been the Collier of Croydon, a favourite character in the older drama.

19. Historie of Error. Query a play from Plautus' Menæchmi ?

22. Windsore and the Chappell. Farrant was at that time acting as a kind of substitute to Hunnis, and this probably explains why we find the two companies united on that occasion.

23. Cenofalles. i. e. Cenocephali (See Pliny, and Maundeville, ch. xxi. p. 97, ed. Warner).

257. 26. Robert Peake. Was this the Robert Peake who was to be serjeant-painter to James I and who has been extolled by Peacham ?

258. 10. Thomas Stronge. He was Blagrave's servant (See note to 258).
266. 15. Their plaie was deferred untill the Sundaie folowing. This evidently applies to Leicester's men, and not to Warwick's men who played on St Stephen's day (cf. p. 256 l.17 & l.13). I suppose that the scribe forgot the preceding entry concerning Warwick's men (ll. 11-3) and that, on becoming aware of his omission, he inserted the said entry after the one he had just been writing, without noticing that he was thus spoiling the sense of the following entry.
22. That shold have served in the Maske. The Masque was deferred till the following Shrove Tuesday (See p. 270 l.20).
267. 8. About the warrant &c. The Warrant is dated 24 December 1576 (See Collection of Payments, p. 420).
269. 1. The Duttons plaie. i. e. The Paynters Daughter. The Duttons had been in the Earl of Warwick's company since Christmas 1575 at the latest (See Mod. Lang. Review, Oct. 1906, p. 5).
270. 16. Irishe Knyght. One Mariano d'Irlanda (together with his father the King of Ireland) plays a part in chaps. 48-52 of the « Historia del Nobile & Valoroso Cavaliero Felice Magno ». He may have been the hero of the play.
18. Historye of Titus & Gisippus. See Boccacio, Decam., Giorn. Decima, Nov. viii. The story had already been told by Sir Thomas Elyot in Bk. II, ch. 12, of his Governour. In 1562, Edwarde Lewicke brought out a translation in verse, the title of which was : « The most wonderful and pleasaunt History of Titus and Gisippus, whereby is fully declared the figure of perfect frendshyp drawen into English metre by Edwarde Lewicke. Anno 1562 ». Wynkyn de Worde had also printed another metrical version entitled « The History of Tytus and Gesyppus, translated out of Latyn into englyshe by Willyam Walter ». A play founded on this tale is stated by Bale to have existed amongst those seen by him in the library of their author, Ralph Radcliffe (Warton, III. 308).
22. Prepared for Twelf Night. Cf. p. 266 l.22; 267 l.34; 268 ll.20-5.
275. 2. []es. This part of the margin is torn off. The missing word is probably « Nayles ».
17. Senatours Cappes &c. for the play of Titus and Gisippus. Cf. p. 276 l.19.
24. Solytarye Knyght. The title is written in a different hand.
276. 1. Collyer. This name was added in a different hand.
277. 12. The play of Cutwell. Collier (I.228) seems to think this is another play besides the nine already mentioned for that year (See pp. 256 & 270). Mr Fleay (Biog. Chron. II. 289) identifies it with the Irish Knight. It is difficult to decide. I incline, however, towards Collier's opinion, as the entry mentions the carriage of the well to St John's, and this seems to point to a rehearsal of a play which was finally not accepted.
26. The total is missing.
281. Revels No 6. This book consists of seventeen folio leaves unnumbered, besides a title-page. Title page v., f^o 1v., f^o 10v., f^o 16r. & v., f^o 17r. & v. are blank.
285. This page has been abundantly annotated by the Auditor :
1. 14, after Clatterbooke, he has added « no mans man ».
 1. 15, » Wrighte, » « Mr fyshe his man ».
 1. 16, » Tyldesley, » « Mr Buggens man ».

- | | | |
|-----------------------|--------------|-----------------------|
| l. 17, after Stronge, | he has added | « Mr Blagraves man ». |
| l. 18, » Drawater, | » | « Mr Blagraves man ». |
| l. 19, » Davyes, | » | « no mans man ». |
| l. 20, » Dawncey, | » | « the porter ». |

l. 39, under the total, the Auditor has written : « in computo de anno proximo precedente xxj^{li} xiiij^s iiij^d ».

286. 16. St Johns daie. The Declared Accounts of the Treasurer of the Chamber, as printed by Mr E. K. Chambers in Modern Lang. Review, Oct. 1906, p. 7, do not record any play on St John's day, but, on the contrary, give two plays on Twelfth day, the one by the Lord Chamberlain's servants, and the other by the Children of the Chapel. I think that in this case the Account Book is right; firstly, because the fact that two companies performed on the same night is in itself suspicious; secondly, because the date of St John's day for a performance of the Children of the Chapel is supported by the following entry : « The 27th of December..... The same daie for cariage of the stuffe that served the plaie for the children of the chappell to the courte and back agayne » (p. 298 l.21-4).

22. Marriage of Mynde and Measure. Mr Fleay suggests at p. 287 (Vol. II) of his Bibliographical Chronicle, that this may be « a mistake for The Marriage of Wit and Wisdom », and at page 294, his supposition acquiring strength, he says that the two plays « were probably identical ». But is it not more natural to admit that we have here another specimen of « marriage » moralities, which seem to have been favourites with the public?

23. Sondaie next after Newe yeares daie. In the Declared Accounts of the Treasurer of the Chamber (Mod. Lang. Review, Oct. 1906, p. 7), the Paul's boys are given as performing on January 1. And this is no doubt the true date, since we see at page 298 l.30, that a « frame for master Sabastian » was carried to the Court on January 1. The mistake can be explained easily : the scribe was probably transcribing from a rough copy, and his eye was attracted by the « sondaie next after Newe yeares daie » of line 26, a kind of error well known to paleographers.

28. Rape of the second Helene. This was probably founded on an episode of Florisel de Niquea by D. Feliciano de Silva. When Florisel reached Apolonia, he found his mistress, whose name was Helena, on the point of marrying the prince of Gaul. Florisel carried off the bride. In the novel, the hero's mistress is termed the « second Helen » (Cf. Dunlop, Hist. of Fiction, I. 371).

29. Twelf daie &c. The actors were the Lord Chamberlain's servants (See p. 299 l.4-5, and Modern Lang. Review, Oct. 1906, p. 7).

287. 4. The ffrench Imbassadour. The resident French Ambassador was then M. de Mauvissière. But I think the person here meant was Simier, Alençon's envoy, who arrived early in January to negotiate his master's marriage with Queen Elizabeth.

26. In her maiesties presence. It is very difficult to say whether the MS. has « presence » or « absence », for these two words have been written the one over the other. I have finally decided to consider « presence » as the last word written by the scribe, for whilst the letters « ab » of « absence » are in the ordinary handwriting, the « p » with the usual sign of abbreviation for « pre » is rather clumsy, and therefore looks like a correction. Cunningham read « absence ».

288. 16-7. xxx^{li} iiij^s viij^d. Under this sum, the Auditor has written : « in computo de anno proximo precedente nisi xxj^{li} ix^s ».
289. 18-20. xix^{li}. Under this sum, the Auditor has written : « in computo precedente nisi xvijj^{li} ». 23. Twelftyde. The scribe had written first « Shrovetide », but then corrected it into « Twelftyde ».
290. 17. In the right margin, the Auditor has written : « Summa — xxxvijj^{li} xvj^s in computo precedente nisi xijj^{li} viij^s verte ».
293. 34. In the right margin, the Auditor has written : « Summa — xvijj^{li} x^s vjd in computo precedente nisi xijj^s x^d ».
294. 34. In the right margin, the Auditor has written under the total : « Summa — xijj^{li} iiij^s ijd in computo precedente nisi vijj^{li} iiij^s xjd ».
38. In the right margin, the Auditor has written under the total : « in computo precedente xliij^s xjd ».
40. In the left margin, the Auditor has written : « nota ».
296. 19. Doble Maske. i. e. the Masque of Amazons and Knights. See page 286.
20. In the left margin, the Auditor has written : « nota ».
22. In the right margin, the Auditor has written : « Summa — vijj^{li} ij^s j^d in computo precedente vijj^{li} xij^s ».
298. 25. For his boate hier. After « hier » the scribe wrote : « with others from Powles wharfe », and afterwards crossed these last words out.
29. At Mr Brydemans. i. e. at the Wardrobe at Whitehall. See pp. 298 l.10; 299 l.8; 301 l.1.
299. 6. In the right margin, under the total, the Auditor has written : « in computo precedente x^{li} x^s vjd ».
14. Mastes. Probably a mistake for « Maskes ». Cf. same page, l.16.
300. 8. In the right margin, the Auditor has written : « Summa — cxj^s iiij^d in computo precedente nisi lxijj^s viij^d ».
17. In the right margin, under the total, the Auditor has written : « in computo precedente vijj^{li} xix^s x^d ».
27. Mr Nichasius. i. e. Nicasius Yetseweirt, one of the Clerks of the Signet (See Warrants for Issues. Parcel 112, and Privy Seal Books. Auditors. vol 1^b f^o 232 v.). He was sometime secretary for the French tongue to Queen Elizabeth, and was buried with Mary his wife (daughter to James Bowser) in the church of Sunbury (See Norden, Spec. Britannia, p. 40, ed. 1723). He is mentioned in the Loseley MSS. vol. 243, p. 92.
301. 25. Lizardes Lizardes. (Sic).
310. 7. In the right margin, and over the total, the Auditor has written « 10^d ».
17. Lettres patentes dated the of Iulie. See page 55.
21. vj^{li} xijj^s iiij^d. Under this sum, the Auditor has written : « Respectuatur ».
24. Driven to hire an other. In the Brief Declaration corresponding to this book (Lansdowne MSS. 27. N^o 86), I find : « Item Edmond Tylney esquier now Master of the said Office demaundeth to be allowed for the rent [of] a howse for himself accordeinge vnto the Quenes maiesties graunte made vnto him for that thowse belonginge vnto his Office is otherwise appoynted (as he affirmeth) and for that I fynd no precedent for the like allowaunce I referre the same vnto your honors consideracions ».

26. Vntill Mydsomer. This allowance was continued much longer, for in 1582, Tyllney was paid « house rent » for « iij^e yeares di. during which tyme the Master of Thoffice had no house assigned him » (See Table II. l. 69).

31. In the right margin, under the total, the Auditor has written : « in computo precedente viij^{li} x^s ».

312. 16. Sherborne. This name has been added in a different handwriting.

35. Summa totalis. The Brief Declaration corresponding to this book is preserved among the Lansdowne MSS. (27. N^o 86) ; it amounts to cccxlj^{li} xj^s x^d (the vj^{li} xij^s iiij^d for Tyllney's house rent being deducted since that sum had not yet been approved of by the Treasurer).

Collier (I. 231) gives the amount of this Declaration as 444 l. 9 s. 1 1/2 d., and wonders at the difference between the Declaration and the Account Book : « We can only account », he says, « for the difference by supposing that the « Brief Declaration » included items of charge not embraced by the account in the office of the Auditors of the Imprest ». The truth is, that Collier has mistaken the total of the sums « receued out of the Receipte of Thexchequier » since the making out of the « previe Seale dated xxx^e Decembris anno xxj^e » till the date of the Declaration (cf. Collection of Payments, p. 420, M. T. 1578), which, as usual, are summed up at the end of the Declared Account.

313. 4. Duringe the tyme of this declaracion. i. e. from 14 February 1577-8 to 1 November 1579.

7-13. Crymsyn cloth &c. A receipt of the stuff delivered by Bredyman, signed by Edward Buggyn and Walter Fyshe, and countersigned by Sussex, is preserved among the MSS. of the Rev. Francis Hopkinson (See Historical MSS. Commission, 3rd Report. Appendix, p. 263). It does not contain any new fact or item. Cf. the Correspondence published at page 314 of this volume.

314. 7. Cloth of Gold &c. Cf. p. 313 l. 7-13.

18. Yetsweirt. See note to 300. 27.

19 &c. This letter, as appears from the preceding document, is by the Lord Chamberlain, the Earl of Sussex, and is in his own handwriting, as I have ascertained by a comparison with another autograph letter of his in the Lansdowne MSS. 846. Somebody has interlined a transcript of the document, which, in my opinion, does not much credit to the paleographical acquirements of the decipherer, whoever he may have been. It should be said, however, that the Lord Chamberlain's handwriting is of the worst kind of XVIth Century cursive writing, and that I do not pretend that my own copy is free from errors.

317. Revels N^o 7. This book consists of seven folio leaves besides a title-page. The folios are numbered as follows : f^o 1r. = 1 ; f^o 1v. = 2 ; f^o 2r. = 3 ; f^o 2v. = 4 ; f^o 3r. = 5 ; f^o 3v. = 6 &c. ; f^o 7v. is blank and unnumbered.

320. 25. Alucius. This title has been added in a different handwriting.

321. 1. Cipio Africanus. Written in a different hand.

18. Soldan. The final « n » is surmounted by a stroke of the pen which I have considered as a flourish ; but it may be a sign of abbreviation.

19. Earle of Derby. Henry Stanley succeeded to the title in 1572, being fourth Earl of the name.

32. William Tildeslay. Buggin's servant. See note to 285.

322. Between each kind of workmen there is a total indicated according to the Exchequer habit of reckoning with counters (in the MS. represented by dots) ; I have taken no notice of these dots in my transcript.

325. 1. After the word « courte », and over xvij^s vj^d, the MS. has : « of sondry » ; but as these two words have been scored through, I have not transcribed them, though they are necessary to the sense : it is in fact difficult to understand why the scribe crossed them out.

329. 13. Requier. A mistake for « requisite ». Cf. p. 254 l.10 ; 285 l.10 &c.

330. 5. Suynge on. The usual phrase is to « sue out » ; perhaps I ought to have printed « ou[t] ».

15. To viewe and devide the Store &c. In the Declared Account for 1577/8-1579 (Lansdowne MSS. 27. N° 86), I find : « It is to be remembered (for asmoche as a master of the said Office of the Revelles is newly appoynted by her Maiesties lettres patentes) that not onely there be a perfecte remayne taken in the foresaid Office, for the full chardginge of Theofficers of the same hencefurth, but also a Reere Accompte to be made by Theofficers there of the ymployment of the Stuff bought and delyuered into the foresaid Office, from the death of Sir Thomas Benger knight hitherunto, and so to be contynewed yerelie ».

331. 17 & 18. Between these two lines had been written the following item : « ffor the Ingrossinge of three payre of Indented Inventoryes — xl^s » ; then this line was crossed out and written a little lower down (See l. 32).

19. Fewer. Sic for fewel.

33. Summa totalis &c. Note that this total is not the same as the one given at p. 332 l.15. I cannot account for the difference.

332. All the totals in this page have been corrected, the original ones not being always decipherable. The definitive totals, however, are clear.

333. Revels N° 8. This book consists of five folio leaves unnumbered, besides a title-page ; f° 4v. and f° 5v. are blank.

336. 7. Iournig. Sic for Journeying.

9. A Comodie called delighe. Mr Fleay identifies this comedy with the Play of Plays (Biog. Chronicle, I. 249 & II. 289). His argument is not quite convincing.

17. Storie of Pompey. A « Life of Pompeie » is mentioned in the Third Blast of Retrait from Plaies and Theaters. 1580 (p. 145, ed. Hazlitt), among the « histories that are knowen », and which are given « a newe face », and turned out « like counterfeites to shewe themselves on the stage » ; and Gosson in his Plays Confuted alludes to a play of Pompey (p. 188, ed. Hazlitt).

337. 3. In the right margin, the Auditor has written : « this wold be entered amongest The officers ».

6. In the left margin, the Auditor has written : « the begynninge and endinge wold be expressed »; and in the right margin : « no suche allowance in the presidente ».

7. xxj^s. The Auditor has added « viij^d », and written in the left margin : « xxj^s viij^d ».

9. xxviij^s. The Auditor first crossed out this sum, and substituted « xx^s »; he afterwards crossed out « xx^s » and wrote over « xxviij^s » the word « stet ».

20. In the left margin, the Auditor has written : « doubtpfull that the attendance should be daly Ther hath not any suche allowance beyn gebyn vnto the porter and the master his men », and below these lines : « in anno precedente nisi x^{li} ».

21. In the right margin, the Auditor has written : « Summa — xliij^{li} », and in the left, under the word « wierdrawers » : « nota ».

24. In the left margin, over the word « Carpenters », the MS. has : « nota ».

29. The total has been scored through by the Auditor, who has written : « lxv^{li} xvij^s iiij^d ».

338. 3. In the left margin, under the word « Paynters », the Auditor has written : « The parties names wold be expressed ».

15. In the right margin, the MS. has : « ut supra ».

23. In the right margin, the Auditor has written : « ut supra ».

26-8. In the right margin, these three lines are united by a bracket with the sum iiij^{li} ix^s scored through, and « xlj^s Smyth » substituted in a different handwriting.

29. Under the name Smyth, the word « paynter » has been added in the same handwriting as « Smyth ».

339. 10. After the word « lightes », the Auditor has written : « nota ».

11. Under the word « lightes », the Auditor has written : « nota pro price ».

14. In the left margin, the Auditor has written : « nota pro price ».

28. In the left margin, the Auditor has written the following notes :

« in anno precedente [nisi xlix^s, crossed out] lxvj^s viij^d ».

« anno precedente per spacium xij Septimanarum allocatur nisi c^s ».

« non allocatur in anno precedente ».

each note corresponding respectively to one of the three items included in the « ordinary allowance ».

35. The Auditor has written in the left margin : « memorandum the parteis names wold be particularly mencioned ».

340. 3. For the Receaving of the ffrench Comissioners &c. See Stowe, Chron., pp. 688-9, ed. 1615 ; Holinshed, Chron., IV. 434 ; Goldwel (H.), A Briefe Declaration of the Shows, Devices &c...1581.

30. In the left margin, the Auditor has written : « Tymber lentt ».

32. In the left margin, the Auditor has written : « Copper lace », and over these words : « nota pro billa de parcellis sub manu dicti Iohannis ». Under the total, and in the right margin, he has added : « prout per billam datam xxviij die nouembris anno xxiiij^o [two words illegible] xv^{li} xvij^s iiij^d ».

34. In the left margin, the Auditor has written : « Cullors ».

36. In the left margin, the Auditor has written : « Patrons ».

38. In the left margin, the Auditor has written : « Billett & other necessities ».
341. 4. In the left margin, the Auditor has written : « Wages of the Master & his men ».
6. In the left margin, the Auditor has written : « Bote hyre ».
10. Opposite the bracket, the Auditor has added : « necessities ».
342. 24. The total was at first « ccxxxij^{li} xiiij^s iiij^d » ; it was afterwards altered to « ccxxx^{li} xv^s viij^d », and finally to « ccxxxj^{li} iiij^s ».
33. At the end of the page, the Auditor has made up the following summing up :
- | | | | |
|---------|-----------------|---|---|
| vadia { | Officiariorum | ----- xliij ^{li} iiij ^s | } cj ^{li} xiiij ^s iiij ^d |
| | artificiariorum | ----- lviij ^{li} ix ^s iiij ^d | |

TABLE II. At the back of this roll there is an endorsement, but it is now nearly illegible. All I have been able to decipher is this :

11. ij^o. i. e. ij with the « o » of « two » overwritten.

29. Sik. Sic for silk.

64. A Mount &c. This probably was the same mount which had been prepared in April 1581 (the description is to be found at pp. 345 and 346 of this volume), and which was not used (See p. 340 l.30).

69. House rent for iiij^s yeares di. This contradicts Mr E. K. Chambers's supposition (Tudor Revels, 70) that Tyllney « moved to St John's in the course of 1579, as the allowance was not repeated ».

79. Priuy seale &c. Cf. Collection of Payments (p. 421).

81. This line explains why, in that year, we find only money imprested and no full settlement.

Cf. Collection of Payments (p. 421).

346. A brief note &c. This document was printed by Collier (I. 235-6), who describes it as « subscribed by Ed. Tyllney as Master, by Edward Buggin as Yeoman [sic], and by Edward Kirkham, as Clerk [sic] of the Revels ».

5. Iohn Rose. Collier reads : « Iohn Boles ».

347. Revels N^o 9. This document consists of 8 folio leaves unnumbered; f^o 1 r. & v., f^o 8 r. & v. are blank.

At the top of f^o 1r., and in the left corner, the Auditor has written : « Recepi xxx^{mo} Octobris ».

349. 1. Betwene the daie &c. i. e. « Betwene the first daie of November 1582 Anno xxiv^{mo} » Cf. l. 11.

11. From the first &c. The line was added by the Auditor to fill up the gap of ll. 1 & 2.

12. A Game of the Cardes. Mr Fleay thinks that this was probably the show called Terminus et non Terminus in which Nash had had a hand (Biog. Chron. II. 124). A Play of Cards is mentioned by Harrington in his Brief Apologie of Poetrie : « Then for comedies, to speake of a London comedie, how much good matter, yea and matter of state, is there in that Comedie cald the play of the Cards? in which it is showed, how foure Parasiticall knaues robbe the foure principall vocations of the Realme, videl. the vocation of Souldiers, Schollers, Marchants, and Husbandmen. Of which Comedie I cannot forget the saying of a notable wise counsellor that is now dead (Sir Fraunces Walsinghame), who when some (to sing Placebo) aduised that it should be forbidden, because it was somewhat too plaine, and indeed as the old saying is (sooth boord is no boord), yet he would haue it allowed, adding it was fit that they which doe that they should not, should heare that they would not » (Quoted by Cunningham).

Mr Fleay thinks also that some offence given by the Children of the Chapel in the Game of Cardes was the cause of their inhibition (Biog. Chron. II. 370).

18. A Comodie of Bewtie and Huswyfery. Mr Fleay seems to identify it with Calisto and Melibæa (See Biog. Chron. II, Index & p. 290).

19. Lord of Hundesdons servauntes. i. e. Henry Carey, Lord Hunsdon's. He became Lord Chamberlain of the household in June 1583, from which date down to July 22, 1596, his company was known as the Lord Chamberlain's servants.

23. A Historie of Loue and ffortune. « This is the Rare Triumphs of Love and Fortune, published by Ed. White in 1589 » (Fleay. Biog. Chron. II. 26).

30. Matachins. This word has been added in a different handwriting. A matachin was a sort of dance in which the performers were armed. The following passage from Sidney's Arcadia gives an idea of what this dance was like : « Which presently was revenged, not onely by the black, but the ill apparelled knight, who disdained another should enter into his quarrel, so as, who ever saw a matachin dance to imitate fighting, this was a fight that did imitate the matachin : for they being but three that fought, every one had two adversaries striking him who strook the third, & revenging perhaps that of him which he had received of the other » (Arcadia, Lib. I. p. 62, ed. 1633). See also Douce, Illustrations of Shakespeare, II. 435.

34. Cipres. There is much indecision touching the exact meaning of this word (See S. W. Beck, Draper's Dictionary, 94). Here the sense of « lawn » is evident.

350. 1. Historie of fferrar. «Probably the same piece as the History of Error, mentioned under date of 1576-7. Boswell (Shakespeare, III. p. 406) not very happily conjectured that this was a play written by the celebrated George Ferrers. It is, no doubt, a mere mistake in the title by the clerk who made out the account, and who wrote by his ear, and not by his copy » (Collier. I. 240). Collier is right in refuting Boswell's supposition ; but he is somewhat bold in affirming that his own conjecture is not doubtful. The man who wrote the books, though he sometimes does make mistakes, was certainly not an unintelligent man (his spelling is consistent and not extravagant) ; and, from several errors already noticed (see note to 266. 15 and 286. 23), it is, on the contrary, most probable that he wrote by his copy and not by his ear. It is more simple and more natural to suppose that « Ferrar » may have been one of the principal dramatis personæ. Mr Fleay says : « Query Ferrara or written by Ferrars ? » (Biog. Chron. II. 290).
6. Telomo. « The Ptolemy mentioned in Gosson's School of Abuse as performed at the Bull » (Fleay. Biog. Chron. II. 289). It may be.
11. Ariodante and Geneuora. From Ariosto, Orlando Furioso, v. This episode had already been translated by Peter Beverley in 1566. The possible indebtedness of Shakespeare to this courtly play was pointed out long ago.
353. 7. In the right margin, under the total, the Auditor has written : « nimis per xij^d ».
356. 14. Mr Cardell. Evidently the same person with the Mr Cardewell, the schoolmaster, mentioned in the Accounts of Th. Screvin : « Item, geuen to Mr Cardewell the schoolemaster for dauncinge, for Newyeare's giftes, iij^{li} ; to his boy, x^s. (« For the Lady Elizabeth Manners, 1599 ». MSS. of the Duke of Rutland, vol. IV. p. 414. Hist. MSS. Commission. 1905).
30. Under the number « xl^s », the Auditor has written : « for the Master ».
358. 5. A longe paire. Cunningham has read : « large ».
16. Under the total, the MS. has : « nimis per xij^d ».
359. 14. A Companie of players for her Maiestie. i. e. the company known as the Queen's men, or the Queen's Majesty's players. Stowe says that this company was formed in 1583. Cf. also Walsingham's letter to the Lord Mayor (dated December 1, 1583) explaining the intentions of the Lords of the Council in granting a licence to the Queen's players, and a letter from the Lords of the Council to the Lord Mayor respecting the grant of a licence to the Queen's players (November 26, 1583) in the City Archives (See Athenæum, 23 Jan. 1869). They performed at Court for the first time on December 26, 1593. (Thanks are due for this discovery to Mr E. K. Chambers. See Modern Lang. Review, Oct. 1906, p. 7).
- Speaking of this company, Collier makes two errors : 1° he severely takes Chalmers to task in the following terms : « Chalmers (Apology, p. 389) says that the Queen's company was formed in 1581, but this is decidedly a mistake » (I. 247). Now, Chalmers had said nothing of the kind ; he, on the contrary, had prudently refused to accept that date as not being certain enough. Here are his own words : « In 1585, the Queen had certainly a company of players, which is said, without sufficient authority, to have been formed, by the advice of Walsingham, in 1581 ». 2° to remove all doubt on the subject, he quotes the commission dated 24 December 1581 (printed at p. 51-2 of this volume), which has nothing to do with the Queen's company.

TABLE III. This is the « old account » alluded to by Cunningham in his Introduction to the Extr. from the Acc. of the Revels at Court, p. xlviij.

87. Previe Seale. Cf. Collection of Payments, p. 421.

90. There hathe also beyn imprested &c. Cf. Collection of Payments, p. 421.

95. There hathe not ben any kinde of silkes &c... deliuered. In the Declared Account for the year 1 Nov. 1584 — 31 Oct. 1585, I find the following entry which contradicts this statement : « There hath bene deliuered... out of her maiesties greate Wardrobe anno xxv^{to} Regine predicte 1583 xvij yeardes of Cloth of golde and siluer braunched, as by the Certificatt of Anthonye Walker Clarke of the saide Wardrobe may appeare » (Rec. Office. Declared Accounts. Audit Office. Bdle 2045. R. 9).

361. Revels N° 10. This book consists of 4 folio leaves. Another folio, which was probably the title-page has been cut off, about an inch of it still remaining. F° 4v. is blank. The bottoms of the leaves have much suffered from damp and wear ; but with the exception of the right corner of f° 3v., which has been completely worn off, no part of the writing has disappeared.

A duplicate of this book, numbered by the Record Office N° 11, is in the same Bundle. It contains no essential difference, having only a few totals which were left blank in the other. N° 10, on the other hand, has been annotated by the Auditor, and receipted by some of the creditors ; it contains also an interesting note in Tyllney's handwriting. This is the reason why I have printed it instead of N° 11, the one followed, I believe, by Cunningham.

363. Title-page. The title has been supplied from N° 11.

365. 12. Choryn. The « n » is surmounted by a stroke of the pen, which I believe to be a sign of abbreviation ; but as it is difficult to decide the exact value of this sign I have been obliged not to extend it.

14. Ymployed..... yardes. Book N° 11 has : « xxxviij yardes ».

19. Of of. Sic for of.

Oxenford his boyes. We owe to Mr E. K. Chambers the discovery of the interesting fact that John Lyly, the dramatist, was at the head of the Earl of Oxford's servants, i. e. probably the Oxford's boys here mentioned, for the Earl had also a company of men. Mr E. K. Chambers is a little puzzled by the fact that Lyly's Campaspe and Sapho and Phao, both printed in 1584, were played before the Queen on New Year's Day and Shrove Tuesday respectively, i. e. on the very days on which Lyly, according to the Declared Accounts of the Treasurer of the Chamber, brought Oxford's company to Court in 1584. And as Lyly's plays were performed by the Children of the Chapel and Paul's he seems inclined to entertain the rather startling conjecture that Oxford's boys can « possibly have been, not from Oxford's own Chapel but selected from the royal Chapel and Paul's » (Mod. Lang. Rev., Oct. 1906, p. 8). Mr E. K. Chambers has complicated things which are simple enough. He considers as « natural » that the « New Year's Day » and « Shrove Tuesday » of the title-pages of Lyly's two plays « refer to the year of publication », and he takes for granted that every time Oxford's boys performed at Court they acted Lyly's productions. Now everybody knows that the date of publication of a play is by no means that of its performance (Lyly himself supplies us with abundant proofs of this fact), and that dramatic productions rarely appeared in print before they had exhausted their popularity on the stage (Campaspe and Sapho and Phao, we must remember, were played also at the Blackfriars). Besides, the Earl of Oxford was himself a famous dramatist, was indeed considered as the best of his time for comedy, and therefore it is most natural to suppose that the Oxford's boys, both in January, Shrovetide 1584, and on St John's day following, acted plays written by their own patron. I firmly believe that Agamemnon and Ulysses, (though I agree it might have been a « probable subject for Lyly », as indeed it might have been for any other dramatist of that time), is one of Oxford's lost comedies.

22. Symons & his fellowes. An entry in the Declared Accounts of the Treasurer of the Chamber mentions a payment to « Iohn Symonds and Mr Standleyes Boyes.... for Tunblinge and shewing other feates of Activitie » (Jan. 9, 1586), upon which entry Mr E. K. Chambers remarks : « I suppose these to be the Lord Strange's tumblers of January 15, 1580 (Modern Lang. Review, Oct. 1906, p. 8). I agree with him.

24. Spoyled..... yarges. Book N^o 11 has : « xxiiij^{or} yarges ».

26. Felix & philomena. From an episode in Montemayor's Diana. The Spanish pastoral romance had been translated by Bartholomew Yong in 1582 or 1583 (though the translation was not published till 1598). Shakespeare may have used this old play for his Two Gentlemen of Verona. Cf. Halliwell, Illustrations of the Life of Shakespeare, Pt. I. p. 46, ed. 1874.

30-5. Fiue playes in one.... three playes in one. The practice of presenting several plays « in one » seems to have been frequent. Later examples are Yarrington's Two Lamentable Tragedies, and Beaumont & Fletcher's Four plays in One, printed 1647. See also Henslowe's Diary. Fleay supposes that the plays performed at Court in 1584-5 are Tarlton's Seven Deadly Sins (Hist. of the Stage, p. 67, and Biog. Chron., II. 259).

366. 17. Between line 17 and line 18, Book N^o 11 has : « xlv^{li} iij^s viij^d ».

24. Between line 24 and line 25, Book N^o 11 has : « xiiij^{li} iij^s ».

38. Book N^o 11 has : « c^j iij^d ».

367. 4. Between line 4 and line 5, Book N^o 11 has : « cv^s iij^d ».

7. Between line 7 and line 8, Book N^o 11 has « xl^s ».

9. Between line 9 and line 10, Book N^o 11 has : « xvj^s ».

13. Book N^o 11 has : « xix^{li} x^s », and under this total, in the middle of the line : « pagina — xix^{li} xix^{li} vij^s x^d ».

369. 45. Willyam. This name was added afterwards.

370. 41. Goate. Cunningham has read « greate ».

372. 38. j c^{li} towardes the chardgis off y^r yere. It is most probable that these hundred pounds were sufficient to cover all the expenses for the year 1585-6, for it appears from the Imprest Certificate Books (Pells, II. 139, III. 7, 22 & 73) that no other sum was paid out of the Receipt of the Exchequer from 30 Sept. 1585 to 30 Sept. 1589 (cf. my Collection of Payments, p. 421). As the next Warrant covers the period 31 Oct. 1586 — 31 Oct. 1589, we are pretty sure that there is no gap in the payments; and if so, the Memorandum written by Tyllney may have been a summing up of all the expenses for that year.

374. 7. The some of vj^e &c. Cf. Collection of Payments, p. 421, and Docquet Books (Signet Office), April 1590.

375. Revels N^o 12. This book consists of six leaves of about 8 × 11 1/2 inches with a cover which has been used as title-page; f^o 4, f^o 5 and f^o 6 are blank.

378. 14. In the left margin, the Auditor has written this very sensible note: « the names of the plays wold be expressed ».

14-6. The Declared Accounts of the Treasurer of the Chamber record the following payments, which supply us with the dates of performances:

1587	Dec. 26	Queen's
	Dec. 28	John Simons and his company
1587-8	Jan. 1	Paul's
	Jan. 6	Queen's
	Feb. 2	Paul's
	Feb. 18 (Shrove Sunday)	Queen's

(Modern Lang. Review, Oct. 1906, p. 9)

There was, of course, no payment to the Gentlemen of Gray's Inn; their play was the Misfortunes of Arthur, shown on Feb. 28.

379. 15. Attendanttes. Sic for attendance.

380. 1. Wierdrawer. Under this word, the Auditor has written: « the parcelles wold be mencioned particulerly » and « xvij^{li} was awarded xx December 1586 by the Master of the Revelles ».

381. 9-12. In the left margin, the Auditor has written: « the names of the parties and the parcelles wold appere more particulerly ».

13. l^s. The scribe wrote iij^{li} which was afterwards altered by the Auditor to « l^s ». The Auditor added also the following note, in the left margin: « William Cooke the Masters man was with me the xiiij of December 1586 & told me that the iij^{li} was to be maid but l^s ». Under this note the name « William Cooke » is written.

19. In the left margin, the Auditor has written: « ut supra ».

383. 9. Under the signatures, the Auditor has written: « Memorandum the parcelles wer wonnt to be more particulerly expressed ».

388. 26-7. The following are the dates of performances according to the Declared Accounts of the Treasurer of the Chamber (Mod. Lang. Review, Oct. 1906, p. 9) supplemented by the Acts of the Privy Council (N. S. vol. xvii):

1588	Dec. 26	Queen's
	Dec. 27	Paul's
	Dec. 29	Admiral's
1588-9	Jan. 1	Paul's
	Jan. 12	Paul's
	Shrove Sunday	Queen's
	Shrove Tuesday	Admiral's

29. Feates of Actyvyty. They were shown by the Lord Admiral's men (Mod. Lang. Review, Oct. 1906, p. 9).

30. Matichives. (Sic).
389. 33. For 121. i. e. for 121 days ; this last word may have been cut off by the binder.
392. Collier has printed the description of this masque (from the beginning to line 27) in his History of Dram. Literature, I. 263-4.
396. 7. The some of three hundred &c. Cf. Collection of Payments, p. 421 ; State Papers, Docquets, 30 May 1594 ; and Docquet Books, Signet Office, May 1594.
397. 8. The some of twoo hundred &c. Cf. Collection of Payments, p. 421.
14. Reformacion and composicion. I have tried, but in vain, to find the papers relating to this composition ; they would certainly have contained most interesting facts on the state of the Revels at that period. Cf. note to 418. 16.
17. The some of three score &c. Cf. Collection of Payments, p. 421.
21. January in the fortith yeare. Another Warrant for the same sum had been made out on January 25, 1596-7 (State Papers, Docquets, 1597, and Signet Office, Docquets, Jan. 1596). The document in the Signet Office has several interesting notes. In the left margin, we read : « Staid by the L. Treasurer », and under the name Tyllney : « Vacat ». In the right margin : « Remanet. neuer passed the seales ». Mr E. K. Chambers says touching this delay : « Edward Buggin, in his Memorandum of 1573, had considered a possible reform of the administration of the Revels Office on lines very similar to those now adopted, and had decided that it was impracticable. Doubtless the same view was held by the officers of 1597, and after the manner of permanent officials they took steps to ensure that it should be impracticable » (Tudor Revels, p. 64). There is probably much truth in this. Cf. the allusion to the officers' opposition to Burghley's orders, p. 417 l.17 of this volume.
399. 1. 1598 (?). I cannot explain this payment, since there is no gap between the payment at p. 398 and that at p. 400. It is noticeable that the year for which the payment was made is not indicated.
400. 10. 1599. Sic for 1597.
407. A Petition of Richard Leys. This document was written before 30 December 1570, at which date Leys was dead (see p. 58 l.17), and later than 30 September 1559, when he signed the 1559 Book (see p. 108). In 1561 (see p. 113), Leys does not sign the Brief Certificate made out by Benger, Blagrove and Holt. In April 1567, we find his signature again (see p. 109). I suppose therefore that the period of five years during which he refused to sign the books must be placed between 30 September 1559 and April 1567, and that the document was written between 30 September 1564 and April 1567. It may be that the summing up printed at p. 109, was drawn up in answer to Leys's petition.
408. 1. Bowll. See note to 130. 27.
2. Between 1 and 10 December 1571. This petition was evidently written after 1 December (since Holte received his wages as Yeoman till 30 November, see p. 130 l. 26), and before 10 December, at which date Arnold was appointed. Collier (I. 230 n.) has printed this petition, but oddly enough he thinks that Bowll was making a suit for the Mastership.
6. Y^e lorde treasurer. i. e. William Paulet, Marquis of Winchester.
17. To make payment to the workmen. Cf. pp. 131 & 139.

409. 1. Thomas Gylles. As appears from the end of the document, he was a lender of apparel for public and private entertainments. On several occasions, he provided the office with vizards (see pp. 141 l.14; 158 l.19; 184 l.23; 268 l.36). In the Account Books, he is sometimes styled «haberdasher». Collier (I. 191-2) has given long extracts from this document.

2. C. December 1572. This date is given by p. 410 l. 2 and l. 27.

5. The Yeman. i. e. John Arnold, who had been appointed 11 December 1571. But he was not the first who had committed such an abuse. In the Loseley MSS. there are many letters from persons asking Sir Thomas Cawerden for the loan of masquing garments.

21. Takyng the garmentes asonder. i. e. he asks that the garments may be taken from the Yeoman and kept under lock till they be used again, and not that the garments may be «taken to pieces», as Collier interprets the phrase (I. 191, n. 2). Such a proposition would have made the Officers stare with astonishment!

410. 23. Bodgrowe. Collier suggests «Budgerow».

411. A note of things &c. This document was written by the Yeoman, this officer alone being entrusted with the custody of the stuff (cf. l. 9, same page). As to the date, the allusion to the presses and the obligation «to laye the garmentes vppon the ground», enables us to bring the upward limit to October 1573, at which date we hear for the first time of an urgent need of presses (see p. 186). On the other hand, we have seen that the presses were probably mended in 1581-2 (note to 186. 1), and this supplies us with a downward limit. The allusion to the «two whole yeares charges behinde vnpayde», allows us to narrow the extreme limits. I refer to my Collection of Payments (p. 420), where one can see that between 1573 and 1581-2, there is but one period during which the accounts remained unsettled for two «whole years», and that is from March 1, 1573-4, to March 11, 1575-6. I believe, therefore, the document belongs to some date between 11 March 1575-6 and 5 August 1576, when the officers obtained the Privy Seal (see Collection of Payments, p. 420). If so, the writer was Fysshe, appointed Yeoman on Jan. 29, 1573-4.

Mr E. K. Chambers supposes (Tudor Revels, 30 & 50) that this note belongs to the plan of reform of 1573. If the date I assign to the document is the right one, this hypothesis is impossible. And in fact, it is difficult to conceive that the Yeoman's urgent appeal for reparations and payment of debts was calculated to meet the Lord Treasurer's enquiries touching a reorganization of the office and a reduction of its expenses.

412. 1. A Petition of the Creditors of the Revels. The date of this document is given by Bryan Dodmer's Supplication, printed at p. 413, where he says (ll. 6-7) that he made suit to the Queen in the xvijth year of her Reign, that is to say, between 17 November 1574 and 16 November 1575. On the other hand, we know that Dodmer and the Creditors obtained satisfaction and were paid their debts by a Warrant dated 25 December 1574 (see Collection of Payments, p. 420). This document can therefore be safely dated November or December 1574.

413. 7. Privy seale &c. Cf. p. 247 ll. 11-8; p. 412; note to 412. 1, and Collection of Payments, p. 420.

9. As deputy or servant unto..... Thomas Blagrave. This explains why we so often find Dodmer's name in the Accounts. See Index of Proper Names.

11. Saving ccc^{li} &c. Cf. page 152 l.7 & Collection of Payments, p. 420, E. T. 1572.

14. The Bookes of that office &c. See the Book printed at p. 149 and sqq.

416. A Petition of William Bowll. Collier (I. 290) mentions this petition, and ascribes it to the year 1597, being misled by a note written in pencil by some unknown person and assigning the document to July 1597. (It should be said that none of the present librarians of the British Museum is responsible for this error, which is at least a century old). Collier wrongly gives the sum due to Bowll as 136 pounds (instead of 236), and does not see that this William Bowll is the same person with the Bowll who petitioned for the post of Yeoman, and of whom he says (230 n. 1) : « We hear of him nowhere else ».

Mr E. K. Chambers has reprinted the petition in his Tudor Revels (pp. 28-29). He thinks that the « two years and three quarters of Bowll's undated letter may perhaps be taken as being the same period [i. e. the period of one year nine months covered by Books of the Revels N° 2 and N° 3], with the addition of the year 1571-2, for which we know that he had himself made advances to the other creditors ». But the latter Account-Book, alluded to by Mr E. K. Chambers, as may be seen at p. 127, contains the expenses for one year and three months ; and this period added to the abovesaid one year and nine months makes up three years, and not two and three quarters. Besides, I have added together all the sums due to Bowll during that period, and they amount to 316 l. 88 s. 10 d. I have tried also all the combinations that could be made with the books we possess, but I have failed to find any total corresponding more or less to 236 pounds. Perhaps Bowll meant the period :

Feb. 1576-7 to Feb. 1577-8.....	1 year	} 2 years 8 1/2 months
Feb. 1577-8 to 1 November 1579....	1 year 8 1/2 months

But the accounts for 1576/7-1577/8 are missing.

417. A Petition of the Creditors &c. This document is written in several hands : 1° the petition, probably by one of the Creditors (ll. 4-20) ; 2° the autograph note by Tyllney (ll. 21-7) ; 3° the endorsement, probably by Burghley's secretary (p. 418 ll. 1-10) ; 4° the two notes by Burghley himself (ll. 11-3 and 30-1) ; 5° the report by the Auditors of the Imprest (ll. 14-29).

9. Five yeares behinde. Since May 1594, when the Accounts were settled for the sums due, till 1 November 1592, no money had been issued out of the exchequer, with the exception of one hundred pounds in prest, which Tyllney surely did not distribute among the Creditors. See Collection of Payments, p. 421.

418. 16. It is agreed &c. All this arrangement will be somewhat mysterious so long as the terms of the composition remain unknown. Deep changes seem to have been introduced into the Office. It is somewhat strange not to find any allowance to the Clerk. Yet the post had not been suppressed, since, at Blagrove's death, it was granted to Hunning. Perhaps Blagrove being old, had practically ceased to attend in the Office, and this may also explain why the old post of Groom of the Revels was reestablished. At the time of Queen Elizabeth's death, the Groom was Thomas Cornwalles, as appears from the following extract from the Account of the Expenses of the Funeral of Queen Elizabeth (Great Wardrobe) : « To the Mr of the Revells himselfe, ix yardes and his servantes vj ya : — xv yardes. Edmond Pakenham Clarke Comptroller himselfe ix yards and his servauntes iiij ya: — xiiij yarges. To Thomas Cornewalles Groome porter at the same rates — xiiij yarges. To Edward Kirkeham yeoman of the Revells Edmonde Monday yeoman of the Tents and Toyles Bowles groome every of them iiij ya: a peece — xij yarges » (Record Office. Declared Accounts. Audit Office. Bdle 2344. N^o 30 a). From the same passage it is clear that the Groom was also the Porter of the Office ; maybe the two posts had been united since 1597.

30. Better satisficed. Burghley was no doubt « better satisficed », since he signed the order for the Warrant made out on 11 January 1597-8. See p. 397.

HENSLOWE'S DIARY. Printed verbatim and literatim from the Original MS. at Dulwich. Edited by W. W. Greg. Crown 4to. In 2 parts. Price 10s. 6d. net per part. Not sold separately.

* Henslowe's Diary is by far the most important document extant for the history of the English drama during the closing years of Elizabeth's reign. It is a rough memorandum and account-book kept by the theatre manager, Philip Henslowe, and now preserved in the library of the College of God's Gift at Dulwich. The present edition is a typographical facsimile of the original MS., so far as this relates to the private or dramatic affairs of Henslowe and his company. The MS. was first printed by J. P. Collier for the Shakespeare Society in 1845, but his edition was in various ways inaccurate, and otherwise unsatisfactory. In particular, it has long been known that the original MS. contains a number of modern forgeries which are printed as genuine in Collier's edition. These have now been carefully investigated, and in the present edition are shown in clarendon type.

Part I contains the text, together with an introduction dealing with the history of the MS.; Henslowe's handwriting; the other hands appearing in the Diary; the forgeries. Part II contains an account of the dramatic and stage history of the period as illustrated by the MS. (Numerous facsimiles from the MS. are given in Part II. The impression is limited to 750 copies, and the type has been distributed).

The fourth volume contains a memoir of Nashe, notes to the works, and a glossary.

SIDGWICK, FRANK. Popular Ballads of the Olden Time. Edited by F. Sidgwick. To be completed in four series. Fcap. 8vo. Price 3s. 6d. net per series.

SERIES II. — Ballads of Mystery and Miracle and Fyttes of Mirth.

[Ready.]

SERIES III. — Ballads of Scotch Tradition and Romance. [Ready.]

SERIES IV. — Ballads of Robin Hood, and other Outlaws. [In preparation.]

The editor's object is to present in convenient form, firstly, that authorized text of each ballad which tells in the best manner the completest form of the story or plot; secondly, a prefatory introduction to each ballad, giving the derivation of the text, outlining the plots of similar foreign ballads, and setting forth points of interest connected with the history, folk-lore, or criticism of the ballad. The customary vexatious glossary is dispensed with, foot-notes being substituted to explain difficulties in the text.

* Mr. Sidgwick's edition constitutes one of the most delightful poetic reprints of our day. Especially attractive is the account of the scenes amidst which Wither lived. The bibliographical portion is excellent, and the very pedigree is interesting, as is the account of Wither's difficulties with the London booksellers. — Athenæum.

"The type is of luxurious size, set up on a page between eleven and twelve inches in height, and shows up with delightful clearness against the ample margin; and the whole is excellently bound in red with gold lettering, while it bears signs of being able to stand wear better than some elaborate editions of good repute... A fine edition, which fully deserves to rank with the best printed in our great cities". — Athenæum.

THE PRINTERS, STATIONERS AND BOOKBINDERS OF WESTMINSTER AND LONDON FROM 1476 TO 1535. By E. Gordon Duff, M. A. sometime Sanders Reader in Bibliography in the University of Cambridge. Crown 8vo, 7 plates, 5s net

This book contains two series of lectures delivered by the author as Sanders Reader. Of the first series a small edition has previously been printed privately, but not published; the second series is now printed for the first time. The two series together give an account of the introduction of the art of printing into England and of its spread, and describe the work of the early English printers, of those foreign printers who printed abroad for sale by the "stationers" in England, and of English bookbinders, from the introduction of printing down to the Act of Henry VIII which restricted the importation of foreign books.

THE MALONE SOCIETY.

Président : E. K. CHAMBERS.

Hon. Treasurer : A. W. POLLARD. Hon. Secretary : A. ESDAILE.

Hon. General Editor : W. W. GREG.

Members of Council : F. S. BOAS, T. GREGORY FOSTER,
R. B. M^cKERROW, F. SIDGWICK, P. SIMPSON.

The Malone Society has been founded for the purpose of making accessible materials for the study of the early English drama. The publications of the Society, which will be issued to Members only, will consist of faithful reprints of the original editions of old plays, mostly Tudor, and of documents illustrative of the history of the drama and the stage.

The first issue consists of the four following plays :

St. Johan the Evangelist. 4°. n. d.

Wealth and Health. 4°. n. d.

The Battle of Alcazar (by G. Peele). 4°. 1594.

Orlando Furioso (by R. Greene). 4°. 1594.

Further publications will be taken from the following list :

The Beauty of Women (Calisto and Melibaea). Fol. n. d.

Apus and Virginia, by R. B. 4°. 1575.

The Tragical Reign of Selimus. 4°. 1594.

A Knack to Know an Honest Man. 4°. 1596.

Sir John Oldcastle. 4°. 1600.

The Weakest goeth to the Wall. 4°. 1600.

King Leir and his Three Daughters. 4°. 1605.

Sir Thomas More. MS. Harley 7368.

Should the finances of the Society justify the expense the first years issue will include, besides the four plays above mentioned, a volume of miscellaneous documents mostly drawn from the Remembrancia of the City of London. It is hoped that the Society will be able to issue one play or its equivalent for every twenty-five members. Each new recruit will increase the amount of work which members will receive in return for their subscriptions.

The Annual subscription is One Guinea, payable in advance to the Hon. Secretary (British Museum, London, W. C.). At present there is no entrance fee.
